Plane Workers Strike on Defense Job

PICKET LINE CLOSES DOWN VULTEE PLANT

Dispute Over Minimum Wage Unsolved In Two Months of Contract Talk.

NO DEMONSTRATIONS

Intervention By Government Commission Awaited By Company.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON —(INS)— The National Defense commission, through Sidney Hillman, its labor member, today moved to bring to a speedy conclusion the strike at the Vultee Aircraft company.

(By United Press)

DOWNEY, Cal. — Vultee Aircraft company employes, manufacturing military planes for the United States and Great Britain, struck today over the refusal of the company to yield to demands for a higher minimum wage.

The strike officially was imposed at 8 a. m. (EST), when 1,500 members of the overnight shift went off duty. The workers of the aircraft division of the United Automobile Workers Union, CIO affiliate, immediately formed a picket line around the plant.

The unionists filed out of the plant, on the southeast outskirts of Los Angeles, in an orderly manner and took positions in the picket line. There they awaited arrival of about 2,000 daytime employes who were to relieve them. A sheriff's radio car patrolled the area about the factory, but there was no demonstration.

As the employes left the buildings loud speakers blared that the strike was on and issued instructions for establishing the picket line. The pickets fell into line slowly. No one attempted to pass.

First labor trouble to threaten military plane production since the national defense program got under way, the strike followed two months of contract negotiation, of which the wage minimum clause was the only controversial point.

Regarding the defense commission's promise to intervene, union spokesmen said that the aircraft company had attempted to "freeze" wages.

"In view of the profits made in the past few years and even months by Vultee, the company should be able and willing to handle the demands of the union instead of passing the buck to the government," they said.

WAR CONFAB

High Command of German and Italian Armies Meeting.

BERLIN —(AP)— Informed sources disclosed today that Field Marshal General Wilhelm Keitel, as chief of the German high command and Adolf Hitler's deputy in military matters, is meeting Italian Marshal Pietro Badoglio today in Innsbruck for general staff consultations.

Badoglio is chief of the Italian army general staff and holds the same relation to Premier Mussolini that Keitel holds to Hitler.

Both men were accompanied by their staffs, it was said.

Here, Mr. Motorist, Is How to Operate New Parking Meters, All In One Easy Lesson

You Drop a Coin, Turn a Handle—Be Back In Right Time.

By ROBERT E. ROGERS.

GET your nickels and pennies ready, Mr. Motorist.

Your going to need them if you park your car on downtown streets next week.

Representatives of the Michaels Art Bronze company were in Mansfield today and will begin the installation of parking meters by tomorrow.

They say the multiple type combination coin collectors will be ready to operate Monday morning.

So probably Mansfield motorists would like to know how to operate these gadgets about to appear at designated intervals of 20 feet along the curb in the business district.

First the motorist must find a parking space. According to parking meter representatives, it will be possible to find space, even along Walnut and Main streets.

Having found the space and parked his car, the motorist should then dig down in his pocket for a coin—either pennies or a nickel.

Possibly he will find the indicator pointing to 25. That means there will remain 25 minutes for which the previous parker has paid.

If the motorist can transact his business in less than 25 minutes, he can replace his coin in his pocket and go on his way.

If a red indicator bearing the word "violation" is in view, or the needle shows less time remaining than the motorist plans to remain in the parking place, he will have to drop a coin in the slot.

That means he will insert the coin under a little hood in the upper right hand corner of the meter.

Since the machine is manually operated the motorist should then grasp the handle on the face of the meter and give a sharp turn to the right.

If he has dropped a penny in the slot, the red sign will disappear when he turns the crank, and the indicator will turn to the figure 12. That means the motorist may park there for 12 minutes, before the red "violation" sign reappears.

If he plans to remain parked longer than 12 minutes he may drop two pennies, which will allow him to remain 24 minutes, or three, which permits 36 minutes or four, which allows 48—or he

Here's a parking meter with the "violation" sign showing. When that red indicator is visible, the parking place should be vacant. So the driver parks his car in that place, reaches into his pocket for the necessary coins, which he will drop into the machine so that he may remain parked as long as he needs—up to a maximum period of one hour.

He drops the coin in the slot, turns the handle to the right, the red sign disappears, and the needle points to the time he has reserved for himself. Here a penny has been dropped, and the needle shows he may remain 12 minutes. Two pennies allow 24 minutes, three allow 36, four allow 48, and a nickel will permit parking for an hour.

SNOW LEAVES CITY STREETS TREACHEROUS

Mansfielder Hurt When Cycle Skids Into Auto; Exposure Victim Treated.

MORE FLURRIES DUE

Weatherman Says It Will Be Colder Tonight, Fair and Cold Saturday.

Mansfield's second snowfall of the season and the first general snow since last winter in Ohio made streets and highways treacherous today and was blamed for a traffic accident in Mansfield in which a Mansfielder was injured.

The snow accompanied the second blast of cold this week which dropped the temperature to 25 degrees here this morning. Weather forecasters predicted more snow flurries and slightly colder weather tonight. It will be fair and cold Saturday, they said.

Steve Yanoshek, 22, of 60 South Main street, was treated at General hospital for a back injury he received when his motorcycle skidded into an automobile shortly before noon today at Park avenue east and Foster street, police said. Clarence D. Hooper, 15 Beymiller street, driver of the car, was not hurt.

Found lying on the sidewalk on South Foster street, near First street at 10 p. m. yesterday, a man who gave his name and address as Corwin Ferrell, 68, of Howard, O., was taken to General hospital suffering from exposure. Police said he had an injury on the back of his head, apparently sustained when he fell.

Streets Slippery.

Although less than a half inch of snow fell in the Mansfield area last night and today, it packed under the wheels of automobiles and glazed streets and highways. City salt trucks were brought into service for the first time this fall, spreading salt on the most dangerous grades and intersections.

The snow was general throughout the state, ranging from six inches in southeastern Ohio to two-tenths of an inch in Columbus and Cincinnati. It melted in Cleveland, but the mercury was below freezing in the rest of the state and the snow re-

Nazis Center Aerial Attack Upon Coventry

Great Fires Sweep Through Industrial City, Delaying Rescue Work After Night of Terror; Hospitals And Cathedral Hit

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—A thousand persons lay dead or injured and great fires swept through the ruins of Coventry—the work of massed German bombers who raided the ancient industrial city with fire and blast bombs last night.

Many fires still burned fiercely this morning and firemen were working against overwhelming odds.

Uncounted townspeople still were buried in great piles of rubble, so thick and tangled that the work of rescue was held up. Rescue squads, their ranks depleted by the death of many brave members during the night, stood by to aid as soon as conditions would permit.

Scores of public and private buildings including hospitals, shelters, the cathedral, police station and postoffice, were demolished or damaged.

The population was officially described as having gone through an "ordeal with great courage" and heroism.

The city, with a population of about 190,000, is one of England's most important industrial cities and is located about 75 miles northwest of London.

It has been one of the Germans' most regular targets in bombing raids on England.

(The Germans said "hundreds" of planes took part in the raid. They said the city was a prime military objective because the Morris, Bristol, Rover and Napier motor works are located there, as well as the General Electric plant.)

A communique said "it is feared that extensive damage was done and many buildings destroyed, including the cathedral."

"The city suffered very seriously and the people bore their ordeal with great courage," it added.

At least two raiders were shot down, the British said.

DEVASTATING: Raids Made On Berlin By British Fliers

(By United Press)

LONDON—Devastating British air raids on Berlin last night were described today in an air ministry communique which said that the main railway stations in the German capital and the great Tempelhof airdrome were bombed and set afire.

Indicating the extent of the British attacks the air ministry admitted that 10 British planes were missing.

It was said that in addition to giving Berlin one of the heaviest raids of the war the Royal Air Force attacked "26 enemy-occupied airdromes and harbors and shipping in ports from Stavanger (Norway) to Lorient (France)."

Good weather and a bright moonlight favored the heavy attack on Berlin, the ministry said.

It announced that high explosive bombs fell on and around the Schlesischer railway station and goodsyards, which had been raided heavily the previous night before departure from Berlin of Soviet Premier-Foreign Commissar Viacheslav M. Molotov.

Also raided last night were the Pulitzstrasse railway yards, the Lehrter station on the northern fringe of the center of the city and the Anhalter railway station south-

THIEVES LOOT 3 GAS STATIONS

Burglars Get $125 In Trio of Robberies Committed In Identical Manner.

Police today were investigating the burglary of three gasoline filling stations last night. Loot in the establishments totaled $125.

Officers said they were called to the Oliver and Frisch service station at 522 Park avenue west, at 6:30 a. m. today by Robert Moyer, an attendant, when he opened the station and found the place ransacked.

Breaking a window, the burglar entered the station, took a set of keys from near a cash register, opened a metal cabinet and took a sack which held $100 in checks and bills.

Similar methods were used to gain entrance to the Auxter gasoline station at 220 Park avenue west, police said.

At the M. L. Folmer station, 88 Park avenue east, burglars took $10 from a cash box after attempting to loot a cigaret machine.

Officers said entrance was gained to the Folmer station in the same manner used in burglarizing the other two establishments, the thief using tools in the station to pry open the cash box.

Meanwhile Joseph Maple, Lexington, reported theft of a generator and fan assembly from his automobile last night.

Former O. S. R. Prisoner Clears Lifer In Slaying

Tells Parole Board That He Was at Robbery-Murder Scene and That Canton Suspect Was Not There.

A former inmate of the Mansfield reformatory who was paroled only a few months ago went before the Ohio pardon and parole commission in Columbus yesterday in behalf of Julius Krause, 28, serving a life term for murder, to testify that he, and not Krause, was present at the robbery-slaying in Canton for which Krause was sentenced.

Curtis Kuemerle, 29, the former Mansfield inmate, was ordered taken to jail in Canton on the basis of his testimony. The Stark county grand jury will hear his case in two weeks and help the parole commission determine whether Krause must spend the rest of his days in the penitentiary.

Meanwhile, Krause must remain in Ohio penitentiary to await the outcome of the Canton hearing. Krause has been in the penitentiary 10 years. He was sentenced soon after a Canton grocery store proprietor was slain during a hold-up on Oct. 29, 1930.

Contending that he was innocent, Krause escaped from a penitentiary work gang last August "to find Kuemerle" to clear him. Later, both Kuemerle and Krause appeared before Stark county authorities to tell their story.

MILLIS NAMED

Chicagoan Made Chairman of Labor Relations Board.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— President Roosevelt today nominated Dr. Harry A. Millis of Chicago as chairman of the national labor relations board, succeeding J. Warren Madden whose term expired in August.

At the same time Mr. Roosevelt sent to the senate the nomination of Madden to a $12,500-a-year judgship on the U. S. court of claims. The NLRB post pays $10,000.

Millis, 67, an educator and veteran labor arbiter, was named for a five-year term ending Aug. 27, 1945.

Speedy senate approval of his nomination was expected.

Barney Oldfield and Wife Ready to Forget Difficulties.

HOLLYWOOD — (INS) — Although they brought their marital troubles into divorce court several months ago, Barney Oldfield, the nation's first speed demon, and his wife, Hulda B. Oldfield, were ready to begin all over again.

When their case was called in court yesterday, it was announced a reconciliation had taken place. They were married in 1925.

CLIPPER FLIES

NEW YORK—(INS)—After two false starts earlier in the week, the Atlantic Clipper, carrying 24 passengers and an all-time record mail load of 10,612 pounds, left LaGuardia field for Bermuda and Lisbon at 8:54 a. m. today.

DRAFT BOARD 3 GETS ORDERS

Receives Quota Day After Others Get Instructions To Certify Names.

Richland county's draft quota for the first call Nov. 26 was boosted to nine men today when draft board No. 3 received a request for three men. Boards 1 and 2 were asked yesterday to send three men each.

With only one volunteer listed by the No. 3 board, it planned to send out questionnaires immediately to at least 25 men from whom the first three to go to camp will be selected.

The other two boards have enough volunteers to fill their first quotas without drafting men even if no more than half of the volunteers are eligible. Volunteers have been given questionnaires to fill out and return within five days.

Mailing of the questionnaires has been delayed, board clerks said, because the proper forms for British Admit Loss of Mine Sweeping Vessels.

LONDON —(U.P.)— Loss of five mine-sweepers was announced today by the admiralty.

The lost ships were listed as the trawlers Rinovia, Sevra, William Wesney and Stella Orion and the Drifter Girl Helen.

NO PAY FOR 18

City Employes Get Checks, All Except Water Workers.

It was payday at City Hall today but 18 employes in the waterworks department failed to get their checks covering wages for the first half of November.

Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton said there were funds available in the waterworks surplus but that city council had neglected to earmark funds at it's Nov. 5 meeting to cover the payroll.

It is expected, he said, that council will meet in special session, probably Tuesday night to authorize a $4,000 supplemental appropriation to meet payroll expense for the balance of the year.

City Auditor Paul L. Kelley's records show that during the 10 months this year, $20,917 has been spent for wages in the department as compared to $19,478 during the entire year of 1939. The additional $4,000 will boost departmental expenditures $3,500 above last year's payroll.

Old Time Favorites Feature Recipes At Food Institute

Old time cooking favorites took the spotlight at the final meeting of the Gasco Institute's "Cooks' Carnival" at the Ohio theater this morning as the largest crowd to attend the three-day session packed the auditorium.

In spite of inclement weather conditions, more than 1600 Mansfield homemakers were on hand at 9:30 p. m. today to witness the special attractions featured on the program.

Today housewives learned to put an added bit of the unusual to old-time recipes to make them distinctive and yet not alter their original types.

For example, frankfurters were dressed up with a special barbecue sauce and a touch of lemon frosting was added to ordinary ginger bread cakes. Salads too receive dther share of attention this morning.

The program was conducted by Miss Louise McFarland, food lecturer, and Miss Pauline Schofield, assistant food lecturer and local home service director of the Gas company.

This popular cooking event has been sponsored for the past five years by Mansfield merchants, the Ohio Fuel Gas company, and the Mansfield News-Journal.

Guns Blaze Away As Hunters Start Stalking Cotton-Tails

Richland county's estimated 4,000 hunters took to the fields at noon today as the season on pheasants, rabbits and partridges officially opened in Ohio.

According to sportsmen most of Richland county's nimrods left the county for their first day of hunting. The largest number drove to the western part of the state in the neighborhood of Findlay and Hancock county this morning with their guns and equipment to open the season.

Meanwhile, a last minute rush for hunting licenses at Mansfield agencies was staged by anxious hunters throughout the morning.

The state Conservation and Natural Resources division issued a statement today saying that the last minute license rush, much heavier this year, had necessitated a shipment of an additional 100,000 permits to various parts of Ohio this week.

Hunters may shoot pheasants and partridges through Nov. 30. Two cock birds a day and four in possession is the bag limit. Partridge may be taken four a day and four in possession.

Rabbits may be bagged through Jan. 1, 1941, with a limit of four a day and four in possession. Coon hunting opens at 6 p. m. today.

DESTROYED: Greeks Report 2 Enemy Divisions Wiped Out

BULLETIN

LONDON—(U.P.)—An Exchange Telegraph (British agency) dispatch from Athens today said that Greeks advancing in the Kalamas river (central) sector had crossed the frontier into Albania and that Italians were fleeing before them.

(By Associated Press)

ATHENS—Destruction of two Italian divisions, presumably totaling about 30,000 men, was claimed by the Athens radio today and advices from the Albanian frontier credited Greece's armed forces with continued sweeping successes in all sectors.

Previous reports had mentioned the destruction of only one division but the radio said a second was destroyed while seeking to aid the first.

The Greek army has taken the initiative along the entire 100-mile battlefront from the Ionian sea to the Yugoslav border and is driving the Italians back everywhere, the radio declared.

In the coastal region the Greeks were said to have driven the invaders back to the Albanian border, forcing a retreat reported to be assuming the proportions of a rout.

The fighting in which the two Italian divisions were said to have been wiped out was reported to have taken place in the Pindus mountains, near the center of the battlefront.

PINCH: Germans To Make Dog Meat Legal Food After Jan. 1

(By Associated Press)

BERLIN—Effective Jan. 1, the meat of dogs will be a legal food for humans in greater Germany.

A new law effective on that date provides for inspection of dog flesh, thus to be controlled in the same manner as meat from cattle, hogs, goats, horses and other domestic animals.

Dogs and hogs are to be examined for evidence of trichina (a parasitic worm) after being slaughtered, as are wild hogs, bears, foxes, river wolves, badgers and other meat-eating animals intended for human consumption.

Unlicensed and unclaimed mongrels presumably will furnish an additional supply of low-cost meat. Many canines are trained for service with the armed forces.

Some restaurants now serve horse meat. Customers are not required to surrender their precious meat points for this food, as they are for pork, beef and other meats.

FEDERATION SPEAKER TELLS OF REMOTE LAND

Gordon B. Enders Describes Political Intrigue of Far Off Tibet to Audience at Madison Theater.

MEMBERS of the Mansfield Federation of Women were figuratively whisked away to the formidable interior of Tibet yesterday morning when Gordon B. Enders spoke at the Madison theater on "Nowhere Else In the World." A native of Iowa, Enders went with his parents, Presbyterian missionaries, to the Far East when he was only four, and as a result learned the language and customs of a distant land before he learned those of his own.

His lecture, based on the book of the same title, is an autobiographical picture of the remote fastnesses of Tibet—a land that has never been penetrated by the white man. For 700 years Tibet has been regarded as a forbidden land, and the story of its strange and fascinating history was told by Enders, a man who had the good fortune to reach a position of title and rank in the Tibetan nobility.

By telling of his early childhood in a minute village near the Tibetan border, Enders was able to create a picture of life in those high plateaus on the world's roof where traders of all races and nationalities assembled in a type of market place, to do business, eat, sleep and exchange gossip. As a young man Enders became intimately acquainted with a Tibetan who served as an agent of his government, and later became acquainted with the Grand Lama who had as his purpose a world peace with Tibet as its center.

The Grand Lama is now dead, but his gilded and mummified figure is prayed to and revered by many who still believe in his purpose, and wish to carry it out.

Enders, telling of the intricate political intrigue surrounding this small province of China, the nature of the people, their customs, and their religious and spiritual life held his audience spellbound for more than an hour.

He ended his talk on a hopeful note, pointing out that the coming of the Japanese-Chinese war curtailed the Grand Lama's attempt to bring about his peace project, but that a time will come when white men will go into Tibet, bring the best of modern culture to the province, and help establish the peace which was so earnestly sought only a few years ago.

Mrs. Lester Redding, president of the Federation, introduced the speaker, and announced that Thanksgiving dinner will be served at the Women's Club all day Nov. 21.

Luncheon was served at the club house following the lecture. The next Federation meeting will be a bridge luncheon at 1 p. m. Dec. 12.

Variety Program, Play Presented At Brinkerhoff

There were 21 members and one guest of the Franklin Art club present at the home of Mrs. Mark Houston, near Epworth, Wednesday for the regular meeting. Bright sayings of children were given in answer to roll call, after which Mrs. Edna Widders read a poem. Mrs. Leona Clingan gave a Thanksgiving story.

A questionnaire on government was given by Mrs. Mary Budenschon, and Mrs. Thelma Kiser gave a paper on preparation of Sunday dinner, after which Mrs. Emma Light gave a program on planning a company shelf. Refreshments were served. Mrs. John Humbert will entertain at her home near Epworth, Dec. 11.

Mrs. Garver Entertains For We Club Members

Mrs. Oscar Garver served dinner to members of the We club last evening at her home on West First street. The table was centered with a bouquet of chrysanthemums and lighted with tall white tapers. Red cacti blooms in tiny white flower pots marked the places of the guests.

Card games were played at three tables, with prizes going to Mrs. Howard Markley, Mrs. Sylvester Case, and Mrs. Clark Moser. Mrs. Marshall Long presented each of the members with a handkerchief apron. A Christmas party will be an event of Dec. 12 at Mrs. George Berg's home on South Foster street.

IF YOU were to pick up the most recent issue of "The Wittenberg Torch," weekly newspaper on the Springfield college campus, you would find the picture of a Mansfielder, Edward M. Chatlain, on the front page. He recently was elected president of the senior class there. . . . And Ed ought to be a "heap big chief" at the college if blankets count. . . . In fact, maybe he should take his blankets on the platform when he has to make innumerable speeches toward the end of his senior year. . . . Having played three years on the football team, three years on the basketball team, and as many years on the baseball team, Ed (who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Chatlain) seems to be in line for three great athletic blankets—the all-time record at Wittenberg for preparing for cold winters under the colors of Alma Mater. . . . And incidentally, the story about his election was written by another Mansfield student at Wittenberg, Grover Swoyer, son of Rev. and Mrs. Grover E. Swoyer.

Locke was a guest of honor, and it was decided that proceeds from a recent club project will be used to help indigent families in the city. Members of the committee in charge included the president, Mildred Perry, Irene Figer, Eleanor Bond, Mabel Selfe and Zora Weimer. A dinner meeting has been planned for Dec. 3 with Mrs. Russell Gimbel at the Friendly House.

Mothers Club Sets Date For Patrol Dinner at Simpson

Members of the Mothers club of West Fifth street school met with Mrs. Lloyd Stuck yesterday afternoon at the school. W. W. Blauser, principal, spoke briefly, after which plans were made for the patrol boys dinner which will be held Dec. 5 at the John Simpson Junior high school.

The attendance prize was awarded to Miss Leona Snyder's room, and Mrs. Hugh Rust won the contest prize. Announcement was made of the P. T. A. jamboree which will be held Nov. 27.

Atty. Stuart Cramer spoke on "Parents and the Child," and a play was given by the sight saving class. The following new members were welcomed into the club: Mrs. Ernest Phillips, Mrs. Rhea Willaims, Mrs. H. E. Tropf, Mrs. LeRoy Watkins, Mrs. Glenn Weller, Mrs. George Hart, Mrs. R. S. Cushman, Mrs. Francis Griggs, Mrs. Geraldine Workman, Mrs. W. F. Appleman, and Mrs. B. M. McCaskey.

Refreshments were served to the 40 present by Mrs. Tom Hempfield, Mrs. Dale Patterson, and Mrs. L. A. Schrack. The program was planned by Mrs. James Brownscombe and Miss Snyder.

The next meeting will be held at the school, Dec. 12.

Mrs. Smith Talks To Church Guild

Mrs. M. L. Smith was the guest speaker at a meeting of the Women's guild of St. Luke's Lutheran church yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the church parlors. She told of the work of the Red Cross. Devotions were led by Mrs. A. O. Fonkalsrud, and special piano music was played by Mrs. Wilhelmine Cahall. Her selections were two waltzes by Brahms, and "Scottish Dance" by Beethoven.

During the business session, which was conducted by Mrs. Neil Remy, plans were made for a church supper to be held on Nov. 28. Rev. H. S. Garnes, pastor of the church, then gave a short talk to the 55 members and guests in attendance.

Dinner was served at the close of the program, and fruit and lighted tapers decorated the tables. Mrs. Ralph Walker and her committee were in charge of serving. The next meeting, Dec. 12, also will be held in the church parlors.

VARIED ACTIVITIES OCCUPY CHURCH UNITS

Thanksgiving Programs Offered By Several Groups; Plans Made for Special Christmas Observances, Parties.

MANY church groups throughout the city met yesterday for routine monthly meetings. Miss Louise Seybold, president of the Mary Markley Missionary society of St. Paul's Lutheran church, entertained members of that organization at her home, 524 South Main street. The topic, "Not Your Own," which was in keeping with Thanksgiving season, was presented by Miss Marie Loesch.

Mrs. Joseph Morganstern and Miss Loesch, who were delegates to the Central Conference Missionary convention in Crestline last month, gave reports. Mrs. Kenneth Lindenbolt was a guest, and prizes in the games and contests were won by Mrs. Hugh Sturgeon and Mrs. Morganstern. Mrs. Russell Hawk presided at the luncheon table, which was decorated with yellow chrysanthemums and yellow tapers.

On Dec. 1, the class will attend the annual thankoffering service at St. Paul's church, when Rev. Paul Anspach, missionary from China, will be the speaker. The next meeting will be held on Dec. 12 at the home of Mrs. Hawk, 163 Chilton avenue. This will be a Christmas gift exchange, and Miss Lillian Damlos will present the topic.

Members of the Lucky Thirteen class of St. John's Evangelical and Reformed church met at the home of Mrs. Clara Ritter, 113 Vennum avenue. Miss Donna McElroy was the assisting hostess. Hearts were played, and prizes were won by Mrs. Ruth Furgeson and Miss Jean Gilbert. Thanksgiving appointments were used when luncheon was served at the close of the evening. Miss Clara Moyer and Mrs. Amelia Griesbach will entertain at the former's home, 241 Superior street, on Dec. 19.

Mrs. Ida Arnold, Hedges street, opened her home to 15 members of the Loyal Daughters of St. John's Evangelical and Reformed church for a business and social meeting. The contest winners were the Misses Frieda Boebel and Elda Maglott, Mrs. Rose Leonard and Mrs. Helen Buckmaster.

Refreshments were served at the close of the evening. Miss Boebel, Glessner avenue, will entertain Dec. 12 at which time the members will participate in a Christmas grab-bag.

There were 33 members of Circle Three of the First Methodist church present at the home of Mrs. G. W. DeYarmon, 466 Marion avenue. Mrs. Harvey Imhoff and Mrs. E. E. Poole were the associate hostesses. The business meeting was in charge of Mrs. F. M. Frizzel and Mrs. E. G. Corwin led the devotions. The next meeting will be held Dec. 19 with Mrs. Corwin.

Members of the Dorcas Missionary society of St. Luke's Lutheran church met Wednesday evening at the church. Eleanor Ford led the devotions, and Ruby Myers presented the Thanksgiving lesson. The hostesses were Patricia Garber and Shirley Engelsrud. Plans were completed to provide a Thanksgiving dinner for a family.

There were 30 members of Class 25 of the First Christian church present at the meeting held at the church yesterday when Mrs. Etta Charles led the devotions, and Mrs. F. N. Wachs led the business meeting. Two contests were conducted, and prizes were won by Mrs. Elsworth Hollingsworth and Mrs. John Selby.

Mrs. Wilda Remy and her committee served refreshments. Arrangements were completed for a Christmas party to be held Dec. 19. During the session Mrs. Clarence Garver was elected president, Mrs. Remy, secretary, and Mrs. A. D. Warner, treasurer.

SWEATERS DRY SOFT, FLUFFY, WITH NEW HARD-WATER SUDS!

Imagine! VEL suds makes no hard-water scum to harden the Texture and gray the Colors of Woolens! What's more, this new suds works 5 times better than any soap in this Hard Water!

ARE YOU SICK OF SEEING HARD-WATER SCUM turn soft, fluffy woolens rough, hard and gray? Are you tired of fighting this hard water trying in vain to get billows of fleecy, white suds?

THEN SWITCH TO VEL, an amazing new type of suds, that works 5 times better in hardest water than any soap you ever used, cup for cup. Yes, with VEL, the harder the water, the bigger the suds. Yes, in safe, cool water, VEL makes mountains of rich, sudsy suds almost instantly. And VEL is economical, too. It takes only ½ as much VEL to do the job as soap flakes.

YOU'RE PLEASED AS PUNCH, because VEL suds make no hard-water scum to gray down the fresh colors of woolens and dainty fabrics, to leave them stiff and "wooden."

BUY VEL TODAY, and see why women with "hard-water blues" sing out the praises of this new type suds.

VEL is a Neutral Hydrophilic Detergent. Made by the Colgate-Palmolive-Peet Co.

WITH VEL, THE HARDER THE WATER, THE BIGGER THE SUDS!

Christmas Takes Over on Thanksgiving Day

Mr. Turkey has his day—but before it is here and gone, thoughts, talk and action are concentrated on Christmas. A mere month separates the two holidays, its days are crammed with hustle and crowds, shopping and parties. On the first day following Thanksgiving, Friday, November 22nd, we will find ourselves in the full swing of the Christmas Shopping Season. The business section will be decorated in its annual holiday garb. Stores will have Christmas displays and trimmings inside and out. The spread of gifts, wearables and Christmas accessories will be on view throughout Mansfield stores to accommodate the shopping throngs taking advantage of their free time over the long Thanksgiving week-end.

Thanksgiving Day Delivery of The News-Journal Will Be Before Noon

The story of the Christmas Opening will be presented completely and colorfully in the Thanksgving Day edition of The News-Journal. This year the tradition of a News-Journal on Thanksgiving morning will be enlarged in keeping with Mansfield's greatest Christmas Opening. With pictures and stories The News-Journal will take you on Christmas prevue and shopping tours with its feature writers and reporters. The stores' own stories will be told in the engaging and informative style of modern newspaper advertising. Thus, with the Thanksgiving Day issue of The News-Journal, all Mansfield and North Central Ohio will turn from Mr. Turkey to Mr. Santa Claus—two fellows, by the way, well worth knowing.

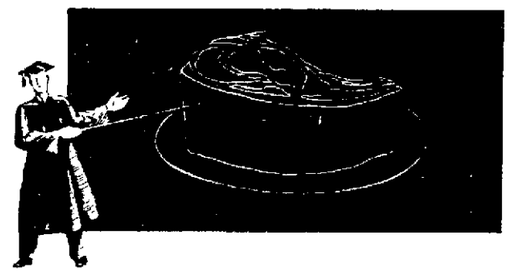
How Smart Are You About MEAT?

A modern health quiz about a modern food



Two Seal means that all statements made in this advertisement are acceptable to the Council on Foods and Nutrition of the American Medical Association.

1. What big health news about meat was recently discovered by scientists?
2. If you were picking the most digestible meat to serve a family with growing children, which of the following would you choose? Beef ☐ Pork ☐ Lamb ☐ Veal ☐
3. Has any civilized person ever lived exclusively on meat? Why?
4. Why is it now less of a hardship to go on a reducing diet?
5. When is a protein complete?
6. In which of the following conditions do you think meat could be included as an important part of the diet? Bright's disease ☐ High blood pressure ☐ Tuberculosis ☐ Arthritis ☐ Anemia ☐
7. This is easy for mothers. How old are babies ordinarily before they get meat in the diet?
8. A porterhouse steak contains more health elements than stewing beef. Is this statement True ☐ False ☐

Now look at the answers

1. The big health news is the discovery that meat is especially rich in certain vitamins—particularly the Vitamin B group, including Vitamin B-1 (thiamine).

2. You could choose any one of them and not go wrong—because, as tests prove, all meats are easily and equally well digested.

3. Yes—the explorer-scientist, Stefansson and his colleague, Anderson, lived exclusively and healthfully on meat for one year under strict scientific observation. Their purpose was to disprove once and for all the old wives' tale of the harmful effect of "too much meat".

4. Because the modern reducing diets prescribed by physicians allow a liberal amount of lean meat, you can lose weight without developing that haggard look and "always-hungry" feeling. Lean meat helps keep up your strength and satisfies you.

5. Scientists call a protein "complete" when it contains the ten essential amino acids. Meat is one of the foods that contains in liberal amounts all of these body building essentials which truly make proteins the "building blocks of the body."

6. If you guessed for only anemia, you are only one-fifth right. Diets liberal in meat are now recommended by modern physicians for patients with, not one, but any of these ailments.

7. Oftentimes meat soup is prescribed by child specialists as early as the fifth month and the baby gets bacon and other meats before the end of the first year.

8. The statement is false. It is a fallacy among many housewives that the expensive cuts are more nourishing. The fact is that the less known cuts, not only of beef, but of lamb, pork and veal are just as nutritious as the fancier ones, often even richer in flavor.

Good News About Stews

Nothing stretches the flavor of meat so much as stew, whether it's beef, lamb or veal. Here are some of the secrets:

1. Cut meat in cubes of uniform thickness. 2. Keep it colorful, rather than "pale," by browning the meat in a skillet beforehand. 3. Cook gently and keep closed while cooking. 4. Give it new color and flavor interest by using vegetables other than carrots, potatoes and onions—for example, green beans, limas and celery. For added interest, slice the vegetables in strips. 5. Season it properly. For example, add a few whole cloves or a bay leaf. Your meat man will help you select the proper "stew meat."

SHERIFF'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE

The State of Ohio, Richland County. Common Pleas Court.

The Mansfield Building & Loan Association, Plaintiff, vs. Emma Stotts, Defendant.

Case No. 25185.

In pursuance of an Order of Sale issued in the above entitled action, I offer for sale at Public Auction, at the door of the Court House in Mansfield, in the above named County, on Saturday, the 23rd day of November, 1940, at 10:00 o'clock A. M., the following described real estate, situate in the County of Richland, and State of Ohio, and in the City of Mansfield, Township of Washington, to-wit:

Being a part of the northeast quarter of Section No. 18, Township No. 20 and Range No. 18, containing the balance of said quarter after taking 80 acres off of the East side of said quarter, and also 20 acres off of the North end, the remaining part of said quarter intended to be conveyed being 64½ acres, more or less.

Situated in the Township, County and State aforesaid, and being a part of the Southeast quarter of Section No. 18, Township No. 20 of Range 18 in aid Richland County, Ohio, and bounded and described as follows:

Commencing at the Northeast corner of said quarter and running thence West 122 rods along the dividing line to lands once owned by William Dunshee; thence South 24-31/100 rods to lands formerly owned by Samuel Mothers; thence East 122 rods to the East line of the section; thence North to the place of beginning, containing 18 acres and 85 rods.

The foregoing tract of land being the same premises sold and conveyed by Charles Petry to William Mull, dated August 24th, 1870 and recorded in Vol. 63, Page 2 of the records of Richland County, Ohio.

Said Premises located about 6 miles south of Mansfield on the east side of Route 42, on the Hanley Road, Worthington Twp., Richland County, Ohio.

Said Premises Appraised at $2100.00. Terms of sale: Cash.

E. P. LONG,
Sheriff of Richland County, Ohio.
By FRANK E. ROBINSON,
Deputy.
H. M. RUST,
Attorney.
(Oct. 25, Nov. 1, 8, 15, 22, NJ '40)

LEGAL NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that the St. Mark's Evangelical Lutheran Church has filed it's Petition in the Common Pleas Court of Richland County, Ohio, Cause No. 25510, praying for authority to sell it's real estate in said County, the same to be sold for $3200.00 the same to be cash upon the execution of the deed for the same. The said real estate is described as follows:

Situated in the City of Mansfield, County of Richland, and State of Ohio, and being lot number Two thousand four hundred and thirty-two (2432) of the consecutive numbers of lot in the said City of Mansfield; save and except five feet off the east side thereof.

The said application will be for hearing on and after the 30th day of November, 1940.

THE ST. MARK'S EVANGELICAL LUTHERAN CHURCH.
By JOHN F. KRAMER,
It's Attorney.

Purity DOUBLE SAFEGUARDED

It is not enough for us to sterilize our bottles and know that the milk that goes into them is pure. We give you the added protection of the Innawire Sanitized Closure that completely covers the top and entire pouring-lip of the bottle. You know it is sterile when you open it — protected against contamination from handling, dust, insects, or other foreign substances on its entire journey to your refrigerator.

Some cities are requiring this safeguard that double-seals purity. We voluntarily offer it to you at no extra cost because we insist that our customers shall receive the finest, purest milk we know how to produce.

CHAPTER XXXVIII

"It is breaking my heart!" Jocelyn murmured. She watched with feverish interest as the forlorn shabby little man of forty-five or six mounted to the witness stand.

Sworn to tell the truth, he sat down under the architect's drawing, close to scale in inches of the flat he and the late Edna Ripper Scudder had once rented for some twenty-two dollars a month, and had perhaps hoped to make a happy one.

"Used to hit your wife sometimes when you got mad, give her a black eye?" said the district attorney.

"She give me plenty of black eyes," Jim Scudder said miserably, and the judge announced that if there were any more laughter he would order the court cleared.

"You said yesterday," Matt Phillips went on truculently, "that you quarreled with your wife at about midnight on that Saturday that you'd been drinking, and that you lay awake awhile and then went out and got the car and went away. Was that a customary thing for you to do? You did that often, eh? Whenever you got mad?"

"No, sir, that was the only time I ever did it."

"Where'd you drive?"

"Round."

"You can't answer a question that way," said the district attorney warmly.

"I don't remember where I went."

"You were drunk?"

"I'd been drinking. No sir, I wasn't drunk."

"You were so drunk you didn't know where you were going."

"I knew where I was going—"

"What did you say?"

"I said I knew where I was going. I just can't remember now where I went. I know I went across the bay."

"Oh, you know you went across the bay?"

"Poor fellow," Jocelyn thought. "It isn't fair to hound him like that. I don't believe he does remember. How could anyone remember what had happened on some casual night seven months ago?" She loathed the district attorney.

"And the only time you ever walked out of the house and left your wife, and left the door open, some unknown person came in and killed her, eh?" said Phillips mercilessly. "Someone who doesn't wake up the five-year-old boy—who doesn't wake Bruce——"

It was torture. Jocelyn saw him wince as the boy was mentioned. A five-year-old boy would be a little fellow indeed to leave to the mercy of the world that had sent his father out of it.

"Well, but then why did he do it?" she asked herself. And instantly the following thought came: "Perhaps he didn't!"

Quite suddenly court adjourned. Philip drew the judge aside, they conferred, bent over papers. The prisoner shuffled off between his jailers. To everyone else it was a show, interesting or boring, but in no way filled with terror. Everyone but Jim Scudder could now think comfortably of dinner, could walk out into the street where men and women were coming and going, free.

"Phil," said Jocelyn as they drove through a windless clear sunset across the big bridge, "the establishing an alibi is a serious thing, isn't it?"

"Life or death," he agreed. "Look at the sunset, Jocelyn. What a beautiful night!"

Below them on the silken waters of the Gate the fishing fleet was moving out to sea. Red sunshine was glowing on the hills of the city behind them and blazing in windows everywhere. The slopes of Sausalito's hills were already browned to summer color.

"Tomorrow at this time darling, we'll be 50 miles upon our way. The Philip Fordyces."

"Jocelyn Fordyce. Beautiful name! Phil, isn't it strange that the men the law catches, the men that are cross-examined and pilloried as this poor white rat is are the men least fitted for martyrdom? A man of any force of character would face it as just a part of the game. But this poor little meek soul is just crushed under it. He ran away," she said thoughtfully. "That's against him. Yet he might do that in cowardice in terror."

"He might. But we've got enough to think of tonight without him. Your last as Miss Britton. Yes'm, I have the ring and I have flowers ordered for you and Tots, and I'm planning on picking you and Norma up at your aunt's in Sausalito tomorrow morning at 10.30. We'll meet the Matsonia, pretend we are welcoming the returning Normas and come back here for—no, I bring you back here, but I don't stay. Your cousin Bam says that's bad luck for the bridegroom even to see the bride on the wedding day, until the fatal moment, so I'll leave you here, and go over to my club and waste an hour or two."

"It's so silly, Phil, when you consider what we'll be doing all morning!" But her thoughts were still in the courtroom, and presently she said indignantly, "I hate that Matt Phillips! Phil, don't you ever be district attorney. It's an awful job. How could anyone—least of all a blameless little nonentity like Scudder — remember what he was doing on the last Sunday in last November?"

"Ah, but he had good reason, Jocelyn. Remember that his wife was murdered that night. That might fix it in one's memory, I should think."

"Well, I couldn't for the life of me——" They were at her uncle's door now, and they descended into a boiling confusion of girls, into a jumbled welcome of laughter and kisses. Norma was here, too, but quieter, soberer than the rest. Presents had come for Jocelyn, and must be opened. There were telegrams, but those must wait until tomorrow.

Nobody noticed that Jocelyn suddenly had grown pale, and had an odd look in her eyes. Or if anybody did it was only to think that any demonstration of emotion on her part was natural enough under the circumstances. They could not read her thoughts, she dared hardly face them herself.

Where had she been last November, on the Sunday before Thanksgiving? That had been the day following that desperate and despairing Saturday when she had tried to find Kent had been twice to the Booth's studio had followed him to Covey's cabin, up in the Piedmont hills.

But these memories however unwelcome, were still her own. She could dismiss them. Kent was dead; Philip knew exactly what had happened that night; no one else but herself knew anything at all of the matter.

What chilled her spine with dawning, uneasy apprehension and seemed to stop her heart beating in her breast was the recollection of what had followed on that Saturday night. Kent, who had so hurt her, who had, while they were in the office, put her aside with his rational consideration of their affair, had been willing, that night, to fling all caution to the winds. They loved each other; that was all, he had said, that mattered. They must claim each other openly, courageously, in the eyes of the world, and take whatever followed.

NAZIS CENTER AERIAL ATTACK ON COVENTRY

Thousand Dead or Injured In Terror Raid Staged Upon Industrial City.

(Informed sources in Berlin said several hundred German bombers participated in yesterday's raids on Coventry, unloading more than 150 tons of bombs on that industrial town in the midlands not far from Birmingham.)

The scale of the raid, the British communique said, was "comparable with those of the largest night attack on London."

Eight aged women were reported killed in one of the London hospitals bombed during the night.

In a raid this morning one man was killed and five injured in a London home.

At least forty planes came over in regular waves from dusk to dawn in the Coventry raid, it was said, and casualties included members of the civil defense corps and the fire and police services.

Places damaged included the operating room of a hospital, but the hospital was said to be still in use today as a clearing station for the injured.

An isolation hospital also was hit, and casualties were caused there.

Two churches, public baths, two clubs, a school, hotel, four public shelters, moving picture theaters, the police station, post office and two first aid posts were damaged.

The homeless were being taken to feeding stations.

Bombs fell, too, over a wide area of the west Midlands, outside Coventry, causing many casualties.

A south coast town also had its longest air raid of the war last night. A large number of bombs were dropped, and 300 persons were removed from their bombs.

All night long, the narrow streets where Lady Godiva rode on her horse nearly 1,000 years ago trembled and crumbled with the thunder of diving planes, the scream of bombs and their explosions and the roar of anti-aircraft cannonade.

Searchlights stabbed vainly through the shroud of smoke in an attempt to spot the raiders. Rifles and machineguns crackled as the city's defenders tried to shoot scores of flares out of the sky.

At least two hospitals were hit. There were casualties in one; in another, all glass was blown from the operating theater.

Store after store was damaged, but authorities said that supplies were not affected materially and that there would be no food shortage.

The aeronautical expert of the press association also said the Germans "failed lamentably" to hit military targets.

Several other midland towns were raided, and in one, 24 houses were demolished, 150 damaged extensively and a bomb dropped on a school shelter full of people.

Coventry Like Scene in Hades

COVENTRY, England — (AP) — Coventry was like a scene out of hades between dusk and dawn while German raiders dumped their bombs in ceaseless relays.

A full moon shone, but its brilliance was dimmed by a pall of smoke and the glare of fire from burning buildings.

Today there were at least 1,000 dead and injured; numberless victims were buried under vast piles of wreckage, fires licked through the town and the 14th century cathedral, with its 303-foot spire, was but one of the many buildings in ruins.

Scarcely a street escaped the pounding of the raiders. It was the worst continuous attack experienced by any city—including London—since the siege of Britain began.

500 Planes Take Part in Raid

BERLIN —(U.P.) A fleet of more than 500 German warplanes attacking the historic English city of Coventry was reported by the high command today to have caused "terrible desolation and monstrous fires" in war factories and warehouses.

The Nazi planes bombing Coventry in what was said to be "the greatest attack in the history of aerial warfare" were reported to have dropped more than 2,200 pounds of high explosives each, making a total of more than 1,000,000 pounds, in addition to 70,000 pounds of fire-bombs.

The attacks were directed, the high command said, at a number of motor works, airplane factory targets and other plants.

The fires "fed on raw materials in warehouses" the communique said, and could be seen as far away as the English channel coast.

The high command said that the German air force attacked munitions plants and one Royal Air Force supply depot, gas works and other targets in towns of the Midlands, as well as scoring three hits on the Dover radio station.

British losses were put at 20 planes of which 12 were shot down by German anti-aircraft guns and one by naval artillery. Five German planes were listed as missing.

Palace Again Damaged by Bombs

LONDON —(INS)— Buckingham palace once again has suffered damage from German bombs, it was disclosed today.

During a recent raid, authorities revealed, a bomb fell on the grounds of the palace, official London residence of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth, exploding on the lawn and shattering most of the windows at the rear of the palace.

Those damaged included the priceless figured glass windows in the palace's famous picture gallery.

Authorities also permitted disclosure that a bomb dropped in a recent attack also hit the roof of the historic Royal theater in Drury Lane, extensively damaging the interior of the auditorium.

SERVICES SET

Shelby Fire Victim To Be Buried In Mansfield.

SHELBY—Funeral services for William Brooker, 70, Spanish-American war veteran, who died of suffocation when the house in which he was living at 3 West Smiley avenue burned Thursday morning, will be held at 2:30 p. m. Saturday at Sutter funeral home with Rev. J. C. Searle, pastor of United Brethren church, officiating. Burial will be made in Mansfield cemetery.

Brooker was suffocated with Mrs. Emmet Van Ness, who was trying to help him out of the burning building. Five persons escaped from the building after they had been aroused from their sleep by Mrs. Cora Perry, a daughter of Mrs. Van Ness.

Funeral services for Mrs. Van Ness will be held at 6 p. m. today at the Sutter funeral home with Rev. Searle officiating. Burial will be made in Clearfield, Ky., where other short services will be held.

Fire Chief Eugene Schull attributed cause of fire to a defective flue and estimates the loss at $1,200.

Disabled Vets To Distribute Seals Stressing Safety

Members of the Mansfield chapter, No. 21, Disabled Veterans of the World war, of which Russell Moore is commander, today launched a "safety" campaign, which they hope will help to decrease traffic dangers in Mansfield and Richland county.

The plan is to distribute artistic safety seals for the use on mail and packages. This is done to concentrate general public interest on the traffic problem. Representatives of the chapter will begin today to ask co-operation of citizens in the safety movement.

The seals will be sold at small cost in order to meet expense of the program and at the same time to raise funds for the welfare service work of the D. A. V.

The seals, purpose in setting forth various forms of traffic danger together with suggestions as to how dangers may be prevented, there are 30 different varieties of the seals.

HEARING RITES

FREDERICKTOWN—Funeral services for Zoa Leverne Wolfe, 6, of Columbus will be held Sunday at 2 p. m. at the Methodist church here with Rev. J. D. Archibald officiating. Burial will be made in North Fork cemetery.

GREEKS REPORT MAJOR VICTORY

Claim Two Italian Divisions Destroyed In Pindus Mountain Battle.

Albanian frontier, occupied additional territory in Albania, and subjected the main Italian base in Koritza, Albania, to new and intensive artillery bombardment.

Dispatches from Ohrid on the Jugoslav-Albanian frontier reported that 23 were killed and more than 70 wounded in an intensive Greek artillery shelling of Koritza early today. It was claimed that Greeks in the central sector continued in pursuit of units of Italy's third division around Smolika in the Pindus mountains.

Several points near the Albanian frontier were said to have been occupied by the Greeks immediately after Italians retreated in the direction of the Leskovik road.

Greek troops last night were reported to have descended from positions on Mount Ivan in the Suva mountains and to have occupied the Albanian village of Golobrada at the foot of Mt. Ivan after an engagement in which 18 Italians were killed, 40 wounded and 85 captured, including five Italian officers with two machine guns.

War in the air was reported intensified, according to Ohrid dispatches, which said that early today six British and Greek planes bombed Valona and Durazzo, main Italian ports in Albania. It was reported that one was killed and six wounded at Valona and that 15 persons were killed and six wounded at Durazzo. It was reported also that in the Durazzo raid an Italian ship was hit and six houses were damaged.

Italian planes bombed Piraeus, port for Athens, killing six persons, wounding 45 and destroying a building.

DIES AT AGE 88

William Kochenderfer Dead at Home In Adario.

ADARIO—William Kochenderfer, 88, retired farmer, died at his home here this morning after a long illness. He had been a resident of Richland county 83 years, coming here from Lebanon, Pa., his birthplace, at the age of 5.

Surviving are three sons, Lloyd L. Kochenderfer of Mansfield, and Herman and Howard of Adario; a daughter, Mrs. George Martin, Adario; a sister, Mrs. William Rhine of Shelby, 10 grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Mr. Kochenderfer was a member of the Adario Methodist church and the Adario grange.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2:30 p. m. Sunday at the Methodist church here by Rev. Theodore A. McDonald. Burial will be in Adario cemetery.

BOOM TIME

Cleveland Bank Warns Against Letdown To Come.

CLEVELAND —(INS)— American industry is swinging into a period of unprecedented business activity, the business bulletin of the Cleveland Trust company said today.

At the same time the bulletin warned that the increase in business was due to the demand of two great customers, the United States and Great Britain, for large amounts of goods at prices best calculated to obtain them in the shortest possible time.

Such business, the bulletin said, could be neither self sustaining nor long lasting, and domestic defenses should be prepared against the "inevitable letdown."

listing draftees have not been received from state selective service headquarters. Despite the delay, however, the boards expected to have their quotas ready to report at Ft. Hayes, Columbus, by Nov. 26.

Members of the three county advisory boards were scheduled to organize within the next day or two and to establish headquarters where men who receive questionnaires can obtain help in filling them out.

The large number of volunteers being received by draft boards in some sections of the nation may force some boards to hold miniature lotteries to determine who will join the army first, national draft headquarters announced today.

Local boards were advised to adopt the principle of "First come, first served" and to settle the issue by drawings only when there is doubt of the order of volunteering.

GUN BATTLE

Two Killed in Shooting Fray in West Virginia.

CHARLESTON, W. Va. —(U.P.)— Police today investigated a gun battle in which K. J. Lafferty, 50 and James Dew, 26, were killed nearby Lamont Hollow.

Mrs. Bennie Dew, wife of one of the victims, was struck by a stray bullet and was taken to a Charleston hospital.

The fight climaxed several weeks' ill feeling between the two men, according to Carson Richards, Kanawha county deputy sheriff.

FALL FATAL

Mrs. Augusta Kunert, 77, Dies at Galion Hospital.

GALION—Mrs. Augusta Catherine Kunert, 77, died at Good Samaritan hospital here at 10 p. m. Thursday, following a fractured hip received in a fall several days ago. Mrs. Kunert had been ill ten days.

Born in Galion, Aug. 4, 1863, she was married to Jacob Riddlebaugh previous to her marriage to Frank Kunert in 1914. Mr. Riddlebaugh preceded her in death 25 years ago.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Kunert is survived by two sons, Henry and Charles Riddlebaugh, both of Bucyrus; three daughters, Mrs. Edward Phillips and Mrs. Lloyd Harrison, both of Galion; and Mrs. Bertha Rehm of Bucyrus; and a brother, C. H. Helfrich of Canton.

Also surviving are three step children, Mrs. Amil Seil, Carl Kunert and Fred Kunert, all of Mansfield; and 20 grandchildren and four great grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at the Peace Lutheran church here Sunday at 2:30 p. m. and burial will be made in Fairview cemetery. The body will be at the Volk funeral home until time of service.

Can of Water at $10 Proves Less Than Liquor Fine.

ROANOKE, Va.—(AP)—The elation felt by a colored man over his bargain purchase of five gallons of liquor for $10 turned to fright when police halted him.

They opened the can, sniffed, then told him he could drive on.

Surprised, the colored man sniffed, too.

The can was full of water.

HERE'S HOW METERS WORK

Story Tells How New Parking Devices Will Operate In Business District.

may drop a nickel, which entitles him to park for an hour.

At the expiration of any time the motorist has "bought," the red sign comes up, and if his car is still there, the cruising police patrol will probably give him a parking ticket.

An hour is the longest period for which a car may remain in a metered zone. Even though a motorist drops a second nickel, to pay for another hour, he is violating the law, and liable to find a tag on his car.

And it might be well to give a word of warning about slugs, which someone might try to use instead of coins. After the coin—or slug—has been inserted in the machine, it drops into a little glass-covered container. And an inspector will quickly detect the presence of a slug. A word to the wise should be sufficient!

Having dropped his coin or coins, for whatever length of parking time he desires (up to an hour of course) the motorist's parking procedure is complete. All he needs to do then is return and move his car before his time expires.

Rigid enforcement of parking regulations has been advocated by meter salesmen as a necessity for successful operation of the meters.

They say the red violation signs can easily be seen from either a cruiser or motorcycle and that one patrolmen could do the job of checking the cars in the 350 parking spaces "policed" by the meters.

The city originally contracted for 350 of the devices, but Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton said today that a supplemental contract for 64 additional machines was being prepared to fill all parking spaces spotted in the business district by city engineers.

Leased for a nine-month trial period, the rental of $3.75 per month will be paid from anticipated revenues, the balance to be turned into the city's general fund to build up a fund for purchase of the machines, or to be used for other traffic purposes.

PRISON CAMP COOKS ESCAPE

Convicts Register Complaint On Poor Food.

RALEIGH, N. C. — (AP) — The food at the Carteret county prison camp is "not so good," complain the convicts—and even the state prison department agrees.

Until Monday night, the camp had four cooks. And the food was pretty good.

But all four cooks escaped.

mained on the ground. State highway department snow plows were busy in sections where the fall was heaviest.

With highways in worse condition in northern Ohio than in the rest of the state, thousands of hunters who crowded the roads en route to hunting fields were warned against speeding on the glazed pavements.

Death toll in the nation from the storms this week mounted to more than 200 today as hope was abandoned for 30 hunters who have been missing in the northwest. Twenty duckhunters were frozen to death on islands in the Mississippi river in southern Minnesota.

Coldest place in Ohio today was Bowling Green which reported a reading of 15 above zero. In other cities throughout the central and southern parts of Ohio temperatures were in the low 20's.

CLEARS LIFER IN SLAYING CASE

Former O. S. R. Inmate Says He Was at Scene of Robber-Murder In Canton.

for the slaying, Lebanna Rohrback died of tuberculosis in the penitentiary.

Kuemerle, who served 16 months in the Mansfield reformatory for breaking and entering, said he was with Rohrback the night of the slaying, but insisted that Krause was not along. Kuemerle said he sat in a car outside the store and did not know of the murder until he went inside later to find Rohrback rifling the cash register and the aged proprietor dead.

"Then you think both you and Krause are innocent?" Commissioner E. E. Everett asked Kuemerle at yesterday's hearing.

"Yes," the sallow-faced confessor replied.

Kuemerle said that, after the robbery, he and Rohrback drove to Krause's home and split the loot three ways. He could give no reason for letting Krause share in the division.

At the conclusion of the hearing, Chairman Harry W. Jewell of the commission said:

"There is only one thing to do. Take this man back and bring his case before the grand jury. After he is tried, the commission will do what is right."

Stark County Prosecutor A. C. L. Barthelmeh who brought Kuemerle to Columbus from Canton said the grand jury would hear the case either Nov. 25 or 26.

Suit For Damages Follows Assault Case Conviction

A four-month old assault and battery case had an echo in municipal court today when a $525 damage action was filed against James W. McMillan, state highway maintenance superintendent, by Thomas J. Devine of Mansfield.

The suit grew out of an altercation betwen the two, July 24 at North Main and Fourth streets. McMillan was convicted on charges of assault and battery and was fined $10 and costs.

Devine asks the damages to cover the cost of his glasses, which he claims were broken during the fight, and to pay medical bills he allegedly incurred as the result of injuries inflicted by the defendant.

His petition states that his physical condition was impaired and that he lost his job and has been unable to obtain other employment.

Devine is represented by Atty. Jacob Wagenhals.

In 1919 a jet of flaming gas rose more than 500,000 miles from the sun's surface.

Garments For War Children

In war-torn Europe and England hundreds of thousands of children have warm clothing only because American women are making them for the Red Cross. Dresses for children are made from woolens in tweed and plaid patterns. Little Judy Maxwell, 4, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Frank Maxwell, models one of the dresses for the News-Journal cameraman, with Mrs. M. L. Smith, in charge of Red Cross sewing, putting the finishing touches on it. Judy's mother is in charge of city wards in the annual Roll Call which makes the war relief work possible.

MAKING CLOTHING BIG TASK OF RED CROSS SINCE '17 WAR DAYS

The oldest service of the Richland county chapter of the Red Cross is production for it started with the knitting of sweaters and socks in April, 1917,and has been one of the important branches of Red Cross service since then.

At least one Mansfield woman—and there probably are others who have worked on Red Cross production continuously since then—is Miss Addie Stevens, 40½ Vennum avenue. She has knit for soldiers and for victims of disasters in this country.

In that crucial year of 1917 when America entered the war, eight other Red Cross chapters were organized — Bellville, Lucas, Shelby, Pavonia, Plymouth, Shenandoah, Shiloh and Lexington—and worked separately for the duration of the war. Today, the 18 townships and all of the towns in Richland county are organized under one head, and volunteer workers throughout the county have turned out an unbelievable amount of war relief work under the direction of the production committee of which Mrs. Leopold Adams is head.

During the first World war all efforts were turned to war relief garments, and after American boys returned home garments were still made for the homeless people of war-crushed Europe. As the need for this work grew less with the years, the Red Cross established emergency cabinets here which were filled with clothing for needy families.

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 15, 1940.

Had you stopped to think—only two Thanksgivings between now and Christmas.

One advantage of China is that it can keep on losing longer than Japan can afford to keep on winning.

As Dorothy Thompson explains the election result: "It is psychological rather than material, except for the unrehabilitated periphery"—which will probably be considered complimentary by those whom it insults.

Already Looking Toward 1942

SEEKING nothing for himself, it is quite proper that James M. Cox, frequently honored by his party, should be the spokesman in behalf of "new names and new faces" in Ohio's Democratic leadership.

Mr. Cox, who was governor of Ohio for three terms and presidential nominee in 1920, advises Democrats to begin looking around for someone to support for governor in 1942—and the suggestion is timely, as an approximate year and a half is none too long to repair the damage done to the Democratic party in Ohio by Martin L. Davey and his malodorous machine.

While the primary system of nominating candidates makes it possible for utterly unqualified persons to "run for office"—and sometimes win nomination and election—even for such responsible places as governor and United States senator, there is at least a fair chance of a really capable candidate being chosen if party thought is given to the subject well in advance, as has been suggested by Mr. Cox.

Who, for instance, are Ohio's great Democrats of the moment—and, for that matter, who are Ohio's great Republicans? Both parties may well be looking toward 1942 and 1944 for leadership of which they need not be apologetic.

Mechanical Imperfections

ARE AMERICANS less skillful mechanically than they have thought themselves? A newspaper man, discussing the collapse of the new Tacoma bridge, remarks that it dramatizes an idea occurring to him frequently in other connections.

> "If a bridge of this size and type crashed under these circumstances in Bolshevist Russia," he writes, "we would have said: 'Just another case of Russian inefficiency. The Russians have no talent for the mechanical arts'."

Our talent for the mechanical arts seems considerably short of perfect, he points out, when public address systems break down—as they often do. His radio, which is generally quite satisfactory, fails him at certain times. Expert radio repair men are called in but are unable to correct the fault.

In household repairs, he continues, he finds that nothing, even when apparently simple, is ever fixed the first time. Experts repair things and depart, only to be summoned again the next day because the thing fixed still doesn't work.

Husbands usually think that electric washing machines, mangles and dishwashers are so frequently out of order because women don't know how to take proper care of them. But if other gadgets fail, too, maybe that isn't the only cause. Here's something that should be looked into.

Non-Partisan Local Issues

SOME OBSERVERS were discouraged by the amount of straight-ticket voting in the recent election. Others were impressed by the amount of thoughtful choosing that voters did. As the New York Post expressed it:

"American voters demonstrated again in the election an ability to attend to details amounting to collective genius. In hundreds of communities throughout the country, voters chose meticulously among candidates and issues, unhurried and undiverted by the tremendous pressures of the national campaign."

That is, they didn't let their national politics get in the way of their study of local issues. In New York City, for example, the major party political machines supported an effort to throw out the Proportional Representation method of choosing the city council. The language on the ballot was not clear and might have led unwary citizens to vote yes when they meant no. But the voters did not make that mistake.

Other examples may be found in other states and other cities. Voters showed considerable talent in jumping from one column to the other when something of particular importance was involved.

Season of Greater Fire Danger

ATTRIBUTED to a defective chimney, Shelby's fatal fire early yesterday morning serves as an impressive warning of the greater danger of fires starting in homes at this season of the year as a result of overlooked weaknesses in heating equipment.

Few things are more dreaded than the possibility of awakening in the night to discover the house afire, yet many people disregard the need for inspection of stoves, furnace and chimneys before starting the heavier firing required for cold weather.

Then, too, there is the danger of fire caused by storage of rubbish, old papers and other inflammable material in attics, basements and near heated pipes.

Each fall and winter season, here and elsewhere, brings reports of preventable fires, all causing property loss and some resulting in deaths, as was the case in the Shelby tragedy.

Taking all possible precautions against fires is much less costly than repairing damage—and may also result in saving lives.

Nazis Also Need Linens

AN AMERICAN, recently returned from German-occupied France, relates the usual information about the early dwindling of food supplies and soap because the conquerors take these for themselves and their people back home. He adds an item of which little has been heard heretofore, but which is probably as true of Belgium and Holland as of France.

"Nazis have visited each French house (he was speaking particularly of Paris) to take over all available linens. Each citizen is allowed to keep merely two sheets and two bed coverings."

The linens were sent to Germany to fill a lack there. Whatever their use, disappearance of these items from household shelves normally well stocked must be a shocking, even though minor, proof to the French of their helplessness and servitude.

Want Adventure?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

LONGING for adventure? Sick of your job—sick of doing the same thing over and over? Sick of seeing the same people, living in the same four walls?

And you want to go, don't you? Where? Anywhere, away from here.

For you're sure that if you could get away, life would be different. The nagging little fears, the stinging little frets, would drop away. You'd be happy again. And excited, and eager, as you haven't been for years. You'd be—Free.

But you wouldn't. You're just fooling yourself.

Need a change? Of course you do. We all need changes. We all need to go to new places, see new faces, think new thoughts.

But just going somewhere else won't cure what ails you. Seeing something different won't solve your problems. Adventure isn't really what you need, though how often you cry, "If I could only Live—live life—instead of just existing!"

But actually, you don't really want to live life. Actually, you want to escape life. That's why you're restless and irritable and bored.

You want to escape the things that make life hard for you. Competition . . . criticism . . . contacts and conflicts . . . all these things make life hard for you. And you think that if you went somewhere else, into new scenes, where you could meet new people, you could escape them.

But you couldn't.

For these things are a normal part of life—everywhere. Wherever you may go, wherever you may live, you will be forced to meet these conditions. If you can't meet and conquer them here you can't meet and conquer them anywhere.

Life . . . that's what ails you.

Self . . . that's what ails you.

And you're miserable and bored because you can't make a Going Partnership of Life and Self.

You wouldn't remedy that fact by going to the West Indies, to England, or Italy, or India, or Russia. You wouldn't remedy it by dropping housekeeping or letter filing and going on the stage—or writing columns for newspapers. Always Life will go with you. Always Self will go with you. And until you can adjust Self to Life, you'll never be happy anywhere.

Stop trying to run away from Life. Stop gazing, yearningly, toward the horizon for your Big Adventure. Your big adventure is here . . . Now. It is here, in the job you're doing. It is here, in the people you've always known.

Study that job. There's pride and punch in it if you'll look for it. Study those people. There's mystery and loveliness and a strange grace in them—if you'll recognize it.

If you can't find pride and punch in your daily round . . . if you can't recognize mystery and liveliness and force in the daily scene . . . then you'll never recognize them anywhere.

Find the adventure that exists here, now, all around you, and then . . . and only then . . . will you be fit for the adventure that exists beyond the horizon.

Timely Editorial

Make Them Ashamed.

The special senate elections committee has invited politicians and public-spirited citizens to send in examples of "scurrilous and vicious" literature used in the recent campaign.

While this campaign in fact was conducted on a relatively lofty plane—relative to some of its predecessors — the invitation should produce interesting results. Doubtless enough material was circulated of the type sought to make an impressively ill-smelling collection.

The enterprise of collecting it will be well worth while if means can be found for summarizing and widely publicizing the results. The remedy of the campaign canard obviously is—a healthy public skepticism. No better way could be found for making healthy skeptics of us all than to spread out the canard crop for public viewing in the cold light of post-election sanity.

To do the job up right, the committee ought to include verbal as well as printed matter in the scope of its inquiry. — Detroit News.

Health And Diet

Some Questions And Answers.

—By DR. CLENDENING

P. C. Holdenville, Ok.—"Please tell through your column if there is anything that can be done for leakage of the heart in a child of seven.

Answer: The verdict "leakage of the heart" frightens people, but it actually is not so serious. Nothing can be done to alter the damage to the heart, but the condition is compatible with long life and comfortable health. The principal treatment is not to frighten the patient into limiting the activities of normal life: exercise is good for people with valvular heart disease.

E. L. F.—"Do house plants take oxygen from the room? What foods contain starch that causes acid in the system? Are starchy foods the only foods that cause poison in the system?"

Answer—Plants do not take oxygen from the air. They give oxygen to the air and take carbon dioxide out of the air. They utilize toxic-animal exhalations. Animals can't live without plants, nor plants without animals. Plants supply to the air what animals need. That's why you have to have plants in a goldfish pool. No starches cause acid in the system. Starchy foods do not cause poison in the system, they create energy.

E. M. C.—"(1) Please tell me something about adhesions. Can they be cured without an operation? (2) Does hard work and exercise aggravate them? I was operated on for appendicitis twenty-two years ago. (3) Would I help the pain by wearing a corset all the time to hold it tight?"

Answer—Adhesions, in spite of gossip to the contrary, are seldom the cause of abdominal pain. If they are really present, operation is about the worst thing that can be done for them. Operations make adhesions. Hard work and exercise are good for them. Wearing a corset may relieve the strain to some extent. The chances are if you are troubled with abdominal pain twenty-two years after an appendicitis operation, you probably have something else.

Mrs. B., Detroit, Mich.—"What is the difference between goiter and thyroid?"

Answer—When the thyroid gland is enlarged it is called goiter.

Axis Agents Stirring Up Trouble, Trying to Block Aid to Britain

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—The Dies Committee will shortly touch off another bombshell about Axis "Trojan horse" operations.

The committee has obtained documentary evidence of the existence of a secret "Intelligence Service of the Berlin-Rome Axis" that has been carrying on large scale activities in the U. S. and Canada.

According to committee records, boss of the organization is Matthias Schmitz, director of the German Library of Information, top Nazi propaganda agency in this country. Schmitz is a former teacher of German at an exclusive girls' college.

Committee sleuths obtained correspondence showing that Axis agents hold regular meetings in Schmitz's New York home, attended by members of German and Italian consulates in the East. Also, that the group is intensely interested in stirring up trouble between the U. S. and Japan, in order to "deflect American public opinion from Europe and thus hinder assistance to Great Britain."

Documents in possession of the committee show that working closely with Schmitz was Dr. Manfred Zapp, head of the Nazi Transocean News Service. One document is a lengthy cable Zapp recently sent to Berlin urging a campaign to embroil the U. S. and Japan.

"Guarantee of Neutrality."

THE only and at the same time the strongest guarantee of American neutrality," Zapp cabled, "appears to be the continued ruffling of American relations with Japan. Such a course for the present and for an indefinite period will not permit a European involvement of the United States."

Another function of the Axis Intelligence Service is the "winning over" of important American business leaders to an appeasement policy. Committee evidence discloses that it devoted much effort to a prominent motor official who has publicly advocated appeasement. In one communication Zapp declared it essential to court favor with this and other big industrialists "who can prove very useful to us."

The evidence also shows that the Intelligence Service is being financed by the Nazi government through the German Library headed by Schmitz. No records were found of any funds coming from Italy, but the Library received $189,394 in the last five months from Berlin.

One item of expenditure was a monthly salary to George Sylvester Viereck. German lecturer and writer, who was on close terms with the late Senator Ernest Lundeen of Minnesota. The committee has a photostat of a contract showing that Viereck is paid $500 a month by the Library.

Note—The Dies Committee also has evidence that Axis agents have been at work obtaining information about armament production and transportation facilities to and from arms plants.

Tortoise and Hare.

SEN. SHERMAN MINTON, narrowly defeated Indiana New Dealer, brought back to Washington a campaign story that is getting laughs both from Republicans and Democrats. This is "Shay's" tale:

A Democratic worker and a farmer were driving to town when they passed a turtle sunning himself along the roadside. Remarked the farmer, "That turtle reminds me of those WPA people you Democrats foisted on us taxpayers."

A mile down the highway a rabbit suddenly leaped out and in a couple of soaring jumps was out of sight. Observed the Democrat: "That rabbit reminds me of you farmers heading for town to collect your government crop benefit checks."

Jap Steel Ban.

IF THE PRESIDENT follows a confidential recommendation of the Defense Commission, the embargo on scrap to Japan will be extended to include iron and steel of all kinds.

At present no variety of scrap (there are 78 different categories) can be exported to Japan. But finished and semi-finished steels are not embargoed and the Japanese have been quietly going into this market. The cost, of course, is higher, but Japan needs metal urgently and apparently is willing to pay.

Certain steel companies would like to get this juicy business and secretly were elated when the all-inclusive scrap ban was imposed. They saw it forcing the Japs to buy processed steel at a much higher price—with a big profit to the sellers.

But the Defense Commission, closely scanning steel capacity for our own mounting defense needs, wants no production sent to Japan. In fact, the commission has plans for an early expansion of U. S. steel-making capacity. So it has advised Roosevelt to bar steel exports, and it's a good bet that he will do so.

Note — Defense Commissioner Leon Henderson submitted a memorandum urging a total scrap ban as early as last May.

Gen. Johnson's Bet.

DAVID STERN, crusading publisher of the New Deal Philadelphia Record, bet General Hugh Johnson $50 that Roosevelt would win. The day after election, Johnson wired Stern inquiring whether their wager was $50 or $100.

Telegraphed back Stern, "Unfortunately it was $50. Please pay by check so I can endorse it over to the Anti-Defamation League."

Merry-Go-Round.

AFTER a decade of partisan fusillading, Charles Michelson, wispy, acid-penned Democratic publicity chief, is signing off, will shortly retire for good. In his day, Michelson was one of the top Washington correspondents, for many years was head of the New York World bureau. . . . The monthly economic survey of the National City Bank of New York reports that 291 leading industrial corporations earned 10.8 per cent profits in the first nine months of 1940 as compared to 7.8 per cent last year. The firms represent half the industrial wealth of the country, and profited $819,053,000 for the first nine months. For the whole of 1939 it was $575,581,000. . . . The British government plans to spend $40,000 in the U. S. next year building small freighters to offset heavy losses from Axis subs, bombs and mines. . . . The post-election edition of the Townsend Weekly, organ of the czar of the old-age pension movement, was a strange contrast to the preceding issues. Townsend vigorously boosted the Willkie-McNary ticket during the campaign, but his latest edition is devoid of politics. This is the second national election in which he has been on the losing side.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—My secretary, Asia, speaks:

Dear GT: The Plaza publishing people called to say they were sending you a new crossword puzzle book. . . . And Washington telephoned to say your Social Security Number was 057-10-2784. . . . They didn't mention your draft number, and neither did I. . . . Did I do right?

And, oh yes. . . . Billy Rose dropped in to ask about you and to say he was sure burlesque was dead. He said he didn't have anything against the good, and I am quoting him, hard-working people employed in what's left of burlesque any more than the engineers had personal grudges against the drivers of horsecars. But he went on to say the American people had decided that pay dirt was to be found only in clean shows, with the result that smut and nudity practically were bankrupt in this country.

WELL, just after Billy left who do you think walked in? . . . Yep, I. Herk. . . . He said, "If that guy Billy Rose has been in here running down burlesque," and I am quoting, "he's insane." He said all you have to do is look at the line of customers in front of the Gaiety. . . . The Gaiety is a burlesque house that carries on all the time, and he wants me to ask you what is the difference between burlsque strip tease and the strip tease in Billy's floor show at the Diamond Horseshoe? . . . I told him I would.

That was a nifty about the drunk in the elevator. . . . That cop friend of yours in front of the building says Pat O'Brien is the darling of the police force. . . . He says all the cops who can get off always meet him at the station when he comes in. . . . He says they like Cagney and Humphrey Bogart too. . . . Well, who doesn't? . . . You should have seen the crowd hanging around Cagney at the Lambs the last time he was here.

THE mayor is continuing his drive against dirty magazines on the newsstands. . . . I'm dying to know what you think about "Suzanna and the Elders." . . . And about the Fair closing. . . . Oh, yes, the Hartmans just called to thank you for that nice notice you wrote about their show at the Versailles. . . . And John Buckmaster says if you think his impersonation of H. V. Kaltenborn is good, wait till you see him work out on Lowell Thomas. . . . Please tell him I told you what he said when you see him.

Frank Case called and said he was sending you a copy of his new book. . . . Ditto Ernest Hemingway. . . . Wonder what he'll do with all that money the movies are paying him? . . . That man who sells ties was in again today but I told him you had a tie. . . . Kay Kyser called. . . . He wants to know why you haven't been over to the Waldorf to see him. I told him you'd been out of town, but would positively get over soon. . . . Please do, honey. . . . Bob Jervis called and wanted you to indorse a new brand of gin. . . . I nixed that in a hurry. . . . There's a cable for you under your old hat on the radiator. . . . May be important. . . . Be sure and look at it. . . . In your recent essay on band leaders and comics who fly their own planes you omitted the name of Wayne King. . . . The list also includes Rochester (Jack Benny's stooge) and Clarke Dennis. . . . That's all now. . . . Asia.

A Farmer's Diary

Two Homes

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

WHEN I was just a little boy I always passed two houses when I was sent to town. The first was a mansion, of huge proportions. It had a spacious porch with large stone pillars. The eaves extended out extravagantly. The broad railing accommodated boxes of rich earth, in which was planted every kind of unusual flower—many of them imported. Above the roof of the porch were many windows and the house stood at just the angle so that those six openings glowed in the morning sun, as though the place were aflame.

The lawn was almost a field. A gardener worked continuously. They had beautiful trees—one with lovely lavender cherry blooms; a Japanese crab; a gingkgo, and a yew from England; a fiery maple and a rosebud or Judas tree. At one side was a rose garden, with aristocrats of that entire lovely family. The gardener loved them all and cared for them tenderly. He always smiled and greeted me, as I went by.

The middle-aged, haughty couple who lived in the mansion had one child. He was eight when I first saw him. The beautiful grounds about his home were his prison. He never visited or played with any of the neighbors. For our part, we did not care. His clothes were a bit too clean for playing in road or ditch, as I had often done. In spite of the rich food they had, he was a pale, thin child. The gardener told me, once, that a servant had bathed that boy three times in one day—and added in a lower tone, "they soak the life clean out of him."

I gathered that his home was not a peaceful place, and once or twice I heard high-pitched voices giving abrupt orders. I never lingered long, but hurried by, on such occasions.

THE second farm on down the road was equipped with a five-room cottage. The father was one of a road gang that worked the highway. Five children ranged from six to 16. They had 10 acres of hilly, stony land.

When they were all home from work, the cottage rang with running feet and shouts of laughter or singing. Sometimes, too, they quarreled, but it was never fearful—only entertaining. I used to like to listen. Their father had a theory that a good quarrel was valuable in clearing the atmosphere—only he insisted that it be a good one. Their mother used to say, mildly, "they fight with and for one another."

When I sat at their table, they would bow their heads above their simple country fare, in reverence to the Giver. They were often threadbare or patched—but never offensively dirty.

Single wild roses grew about the border of their lawn—they had transplanted them from a neighboring pasture. Their furniture was homemade, their floors were mostly bare, except for rugs of rags.

The children went out to work as soon as they were old enough, and whenever they returned home there was a joyful celebration.

I PASSED both these homes whenever I went to town. I was only a little boy, but I have never outgrown the impression they made upon me.

Daily Bible Thought

I am the way, and the truth, and the life; no one cometh to the father, but by me. — John 14:6.

ORDERS SALE OF 20 PROPERTIES

Mansfield, Shelby, Plymouth Real Estate Involved In Foreclosure Actions.

Foreclosure sale of nearly 20 properties in Mansfield, Shelby and Plymouth to pay delinquent tax judgments totaling $4,064 had been ordered today in Richland county common pleas court.

The Matlock Chapel property on Grace street and a property in Coolridge Heights will be sold on a judgment for $3,569 obtained by County Treasurer John E. Kolb against Gerald W. Crult and others.

Sixteen Shelby and Plymouth properties will be sold to satisfy judgments amounting to $495 in back taxes and penalties. The judgments were returned against Henry Bachrach and others as owners of the lots.

Deputy Sheriff Frank Robinson who will conduct the sales at the courthouse said the properties will be appraised next week and dates for the sales will be set then.

The design of the White House proper and of the terraces is said to have been suggested by the Duke of Leinster's palace in Dublin.

RECIPES DEMONSTRATED DURING SECOND SESSION OF INSTITUTE

Following are some of the recipes demonstrated by Miss Louise McFarland, food lecturer, and Miss Pauline Schofield, assistant, yesterday at the Gasco Food Institute at the Ohio theater:

Potato Refrigerator Rolls.

1 yeast cake
½ C. lukewarm water
⅔ C. shortening
1½ tsp. salt
½ C. sugar
1 C. mashed potatoes
1 C. scalded milk
2 eggs
6 to 8 C. sifted bread flour

Mash potatoes, add shortening, sugar, salt and eggs in a 5 qt. mixing bowl, and cream well. Dissolve yeast cake in lukewarm water, add to lukewarm milk, then add to potato mixture. Add sifted flour to make a stiff dough. Toss on floured board and knead well. Put into a large mixing bowl and let rise until double in bulk. Knead lightly. Rub over top with melted butter, cover, place in gas refrigerator until ready to use. About 1½ hours before baking time, pinch off dough, shape into rolls as desired. Place in pan cover, and let rise until light.

Oragne Blossom Dainties.

1 C. shortening
1¼ C. sugar
1 tsp. grated orange rind
¼ tsp. salt
1 egg and 1 egg white, beaten
¼ C. orange juice
4 C. sifted flour
1 tsp. baking powder

Cream shortening and sugar. Mix in orange rind. Add egg, beating thoroughly. Sift flour and baking powder together and add, mixing only enough to combine ingredients. Chill. Roll out ⅛ inch thick. Cut with scalloped and heart-shaped cookie cutters. Bake on ungreased baking sheet in moderate oven, 400 degrees, 10 to 12 minutes. Cool. Decorate with Orange Frosting, using pastry tube or small spoon. Makes about 9 dozen two-inch cookies.

Variations.

Bowknots: Roll out dough about ¼ inch thick. Cut in strips ½ inch wide and 6 inches long. Tie in knots. Place on greased baking sheet, cover and let double. Bake in moderately hot oven, 400 degrees, 15 to 20 minutes.

Fan Tan: Roll out rectangular sheet very thin. Brush with melted butter. Cut in strips about 1 inch wide. Pile 6 or 7 strips together. Cut 1½ inch pieces and place on end in greased muffin tins. Let rise until light Bake in moderately hot oven, 400 degrees 15 to 20 minutes

Rosettes: Follow directions for Bowknots. After tieing, bring one one through center and the other over the side.

Pecan: Spread the bottom of the baking pan with a mixture of 4 Tbsp. butter, 1 Tbsp. water, and 1 C. brown sugar. Roll dough into sheet ¼ to ½ inch thick, spread with melted butter, sprinkle with cinnamon and sugar mixture. Roll like jelly roll. Cut slices ¾ to 1 inch thick and place cut side down on sugar mixture. Allow to rise and when light, bake 20 to 25 minutes at 400 degrees.

Orange Frosting.

2 C. confectioner's sugar
1 tsp. grated orange rind
2 Tbsp. orange juice (about)
1 egg yolk
2 Tbsp. melted butter

Beat ingredients together until smooth and thick enough to spread.

Cheese Wafers.

2 pkg. Philadelphia cream cheese (6 oz.)
1 C. butter
2½ C flour
¼ tsp. salt

Cream butter and cheese thoroughly. Add flour until a stiff mixture is formed. Form into rolls about the diameter of a fifty cent piece. Wrap in wax paper and store in gas refrigerator. Slice very thin and bake at 375 degrees for 15 to 20 minutes.

Baked Ham.

Place well-scrubbed ham in uncovered pan with fat side up. Cook in oven at 300 degrees until done or until the meat thermometer registers 160 degrees. Allow 25 to 30 minutes per pound. About 45 minutes before the ham is done, remove from oven. Take off rind. Mark fat into squares. Use the following coating:
1. Mix 1 C. brown sugar with 1 tsp. dry musard and 2 to 4 Tbsp. vinegar. Spread over ham. Bake at 375 degrees.

Cherry Pie.

Pie Crust
4 C. corn flakes
¼ C. sugar
⅓ C melted butter

Roll 4 C. corn flakes with a rolling pin until finely crushed. To 1 C of these fine cornflakes crumbs, add the melted butter and sugar Use to line the bottom and sides of an 8-inch pie tin. Bake for 10 minutes at 350 degrees. Chill thoroughly.

FILLINGS—1 No. 2 can sour cherries (drained)
½ C. sugar
½ C. cherry juice
2 Tbsp. cornstarch
1½ Tbsp. water

Pour cherries and juice into saucepan, add sugar and bring to the boiling point. Mix cornstarch with water and add to cherries. Cook until it thickens. Chill.

Quick Lunch.

Mystery Squares Favorite Sauce
Head Letuce Salad
Lemon Ice Cream Wafers

The Mystery Squares are an excellent idea for using left-over pastry dough Roll plain pastry dough ¼ inch thick, cut into 3-inch squares and fill centers with any left-over vegetables. Fold over, and pinch edges together. Deep fat fry following directions for cooked mixtures.

Sweet Potato Puffs.

2 C. cold cooked mashed sweet potatoes
1 egg yolk
½ tsp. salt
2 Tbsp. butter, melted

Combine and mix thoroughly, then divide into six portions, flatten each portion, and place a mashmallow in the center. Pull potato up around the marshmallow, leaving a small opening at the top.

Crush very fine 2 C rice flakes and combine these with 4 Tbsp. melted butter. Roll the sweet potota balls in the buttered rice flakes, then place in the wire frying basket and lower into the deep, hot fat (390 degrees or bread test 40 seconds). Fry till golden brown; drain on paper toweling. Keep hot in oven (leave door open) until all are fried. Serve on hot dish.

Refrigerator Doughnuts.

4 C. sifted pastry flour
½ tsp. salt
5 tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. nutmeg
1 tsp. vanilla
⅔ C. sugar
2 eggs
2 Tbsp. fat, melted
⅔ C. milk

Mix fat and sugar, add well beaten eggs, then flour sifted with other dry ingredients. Mix to a soft dough with milk. Pat dough to ½ inch thickness on floured board and cut. Fry in deep fat, 375 degrees. This dough may be kept in a covered bowl in your gas refrigerator to be fried when desired.

Copperhead snakes sometimes respond to gentle treatment in captivity and become tame and good-natured. Their venom is fatal.

CO-OPERATIVE CLUB INSTALLS NEW OFFICERS

Mansfield Members Attend Ceremony Last Night of Shelby Group.

SHELBY — Officers were installed for the Shelby Co-Operative Club International during a meeting Thursday night at 7 p. m. at St. Mary's Catholic parish here.

Taking part in the ceremony were members of the Mansfield club, which sponsored the formation of the local club. Two bus loads of the Mansfield members attended the meeting.

During the ceremonies the charter of the Shelby club was presented to the president, Dr. W. J. Briggs. Other members taking office were Charles H. Dye, vice president; Dr. Elmer L. Jackson, second vice president; John Plank, third vice president; George W. Roush, secretary; Murell E. Berkley, treasurer; James Lingo, sergeant-at-arms; and Rev. Carl A. Grimm of First Evangelical and Reformed church, chaplain.

The board of directors for the newly organized club includes Harry M. Pry, chairman; Eldon L. Heck, Dr. H. G. Rinehart, Dr. Jackson, Dye and Plank.

Organized here last month, the international club was started April 11, 1912 at Kansas City, Mo. Cities having clubs in Ohio include Mansfield, Cincinnati, Columbus, Lima, Marion, Dayton, Hamilton, Middletown, Springfield, Findlay and Urbana.

Sulphur Springs School Children Getting Vacation

BUCYRUS—Arrangements were completed today for classes to be resumed on Monday, Nov. 25, at nearby Sulphur Springs school, which was damaged considerably by fire Tuesday. Until then the 200 pupils of the school will be on a forced vacation, County School Supt. Glen C. West reported.

Two building contractors and an insurance adjustor are completing their check of the damage. No announcement has been made of the estimated loss. The building was covered by $80,000 insurance.

Classes will be held on the first floor of the building until repairs are made to the remainder of the two-story, brick building.

The fire was believed to have been caused by a short circuit. It was discovered Tuesday morning shortly after classes began and the 200 pupils walked to safety when the school fire alarm was sounded.

PLEADS GUILTY

Bucyrus Man Admits Defrauding Aged Crestline Woman.

BUCYRUS—A plea of guilty to a charge of fraud was entered by Salvain E. Williams, former Bucyrian, at his arraignment before Justice of Peace O. K. Bender Wednesday. Bender bound Williams over to Crawford county common pleas court under $5,000 bond. Williams was arrested in Dayton this week on a charge filed by Myron Bell of Bucyrus.

Bell told authorities that Williams obtained $2,500 from him allegedly to buy old gold from an aged Crestline woman. Williams disappeared several weeks ago shortly after receiving the money.

Williams, who is 43 and the father of eight children, is being held in county jail here.

CUPS AWARDED

DISTRICT PYTHIAN SISTERS CONVENTION HELD AT GALION

GALION—The 35th annual convention of District No. 12 of the Pythian Sisters lodge was held in Galion Thursday in the Junior Order hall. Some 170 members were in attendance for the opening session in the afternoon. They represented the following towns: Mansfield, Centerburg, Cardington, Wooster, Mt. Vernon, Sunbury, Mt. Gilead, Shelby, Fulton, Bellville, Millersburg, Marengo, Shreve, Loudonville, Shanesville, Crestline, Edison, Lakeville, Sugar Creek, Elyria, Ohio, and Connersville, Ind.

The convention came to a close in the evening when a program of stunts was presented by the visiting temples and a program was also presented by the Galion lodge. Refreshments were served at a late hour.

Registration took place at 10 a. m., with Bertha Shellenbarger of Huron, district deputy grand chief, presiding. Kathryn Cronenwett sang "God Bless America," and Rev. R. R. Elliker of the First Reformed church, led in prayer. The welcome was extended by Mayor W. M. King and a response was given by Bertha Carter of Amherst, grand chief. A welcome from the Galion temple was extended by Mrs. Cronenwett. The Mt. Gilead temple was in charge of memorial services and charter draping.

Following a dinner at the Maxwell House, the afternoon session was opened. This featured ritualistic work, introduction of grand officers, and various business.

Among the distinguished guests present were Bernice Carter of Amherst, grand chief; Beatrice Hoffman of Kent, formerly of Galion, and grand trustee; Mary Tapper of Oberlin, grand mistress of finance; Mrs. Eva J. Frye of Willard, Lena Lee Unkle of Millersburg, Nellie Phelps of Mansfield, district deputies, and Emma Bower of Akron, deputy of district No. 19.

RUSSELL TALKS

Mansfielder Speaks at Galion Brotherhood Meeting.

GALION — William Russell of Mansfield, superintendent of engineering at the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, was the speaker Thursday night at a meeting of the Men's Brotherhood at the Peace Lutheran church.

The speaker served four years in the service of the British army during the World war, and came to this country to make his home after the war. His subject was "This Freedom," and he addressed the group as an ex-soldier and an American citizen. C. L. Baxter was program chairman. Group singing was also enjoyed.

During the business session, plans were made to hold a Christmas exchange at the December meeting when the officers will be in charge. Refreshments were served during the social hours.

GRANGE ELECTS

The following officers were elected at the regular session of the Shenandoah Grange Tuesday evening:

Master, H. D. Campbell; overseer, Grover Simpson; lecturer, Mrs. Charles Oberlin; chaplain, Mrs. Frank Eastman; steward, Frank Eastman; assistant steward, Fred Herr; secretary, Mrs. H. D. Campbell; treasurer, Enos Renner; gatekeeper, Vernon Greenawalt; Ceres, Mrs. Fred Herr; Pomona, Mrs. Carl Neer; Flora, Mrs. Tarbot; lady assistant steward, Mrs. George Hahn; legislative agent, Chester Millick; executive committee, Harold Winters; pianist, Mrs. C. Millick; matron juveniles, Esther May Simpson.

BOOK REVIEWED

CRESTLINE—"The House Antiqua" by Lewis Adamic was reviewed by Mrs. C. E. Dewald Wednesday evening at the meeting of the Wesleyan Study club held at the home of Mrs. Fred Hesser.

Mrs. J. B. McCarter will open her home for the December meeting at which time Mrs. Harry Spore will be the reviewer.

INSPECTION

GALION — There were around 200 present Thursday night for a dinner at 6:45 o'clock and the annual inspection of the Galion Lodge of Elks. The inspecting officer was W. J. Foutey of Wooster, district deputy grand exalted ruler. Two candidates were initiated during the meeting.

HEADS GUILD

BUCYRUS — Mrs. Ralph Livingston was elected president of the Women's Guild of First Evangelical church at a meeting at the church Wednesday night. Mrs. H. E. Kiess was chosen vice president, Miss Irene Ulmer, secretary, and Mrs. William Costello, treasurer.

Plans were completed for the serving of the father-son banquet on December 4. The committee includes Mrs. Lloyd Deerwester, chairman, Miss Evelyn Class, Mrs. T. E. Potter and Mrs. Russell Miller.

CLUB PRESENTS LIBRARY WITH NEW VOLUME

'Queen Elizabeth' Added To Shelves of New Books Released This Week.

Members of the Timely Topics club this week presented the Mansfield Public library with the Catholic Book of the Month Club's choice for October, a volume by Theodore Maynard entitled, "Queen Elizabeth."

This book deals with the religious aspect of the reign of Queen Elizabeth. Of interest to the city's philatelists will be another new book at the library, "United States Stamp Catalog for 1941," a specialized edition.

BRIGHT PAVILIONS by Hugh Walpole is the fifth of the Herries Chronicles. With the Elizabethan age as background this is the story of the two Herries brothers, Nicholas, the kindly giant and Robin, the idealist and dreamer; and of Philip Irvine, handsome and vain. From their first meeting Nicholas and Irvine are enemies, and when the latter marries the girl whom Robin loves, the triangle of hatred among the three is sealed.

PARIS GAZETTE, written by Lionel Feuchtwanger and translated from the German by Willa and Edwin Muir, is the story of a world within a world; the Paris of 1935, interlaced with German refugees and Nazi officials. The focal point is the German-language newspaper, "Paris Gazette" whose staff spreads into every part of the city. A powerful Comedie Humaine that embraces the destinies of people in all walks of life.

GENTLEMAN OF STRATFORD by John Brophy is at once a delightful romance and a most ingenious reconstruction of Shakespeare the human being. Elizabethan London—the tavern life of writers and poets, the odd theatrical set-up, and the position of women in that day—is vividly pictured.

OTHER FICTION:

THE VALIANT HEART by Blake; CONVERSATION, Aiken; POISON JASMINE, Clason.

Robert Sherwood's deeply moving play, THERE SHALL BE NO NIGHT, at once a warning to America and an indictment of isolationism, is the tragedy of a Finnish-American family in Helsinki. They were peace loving and idealistic; unable to believe that the powers of evil would engulf their country and themselves, realizing too late that only force could meet force.

NON-FICTION BOOKS:

IN THE DREAM WE LOST; SOVIET RUSSIA THEN AND NOW, Freda Utely speaks for the disillusioned. After joining the Communist party, she married a Russian and went to live in Russia. Her book then, is the impassioned story of her own tragic experiences there from 1930-1936. Her husband was imprisoned in 1936; she has not seen him since, nor does she know if he is alive. Her opinions on foreign policy and the present European crisis are less effective than are her first hand observations of Russia.

Sean O'Faolain in AN IRISH JOURNEY gives delightful impressions of the people of Ireland, their cities and towns. It is the best kind of travel book: by a man who knows his country as he knows his own home and loves it so much that nothing like politeness or careful behavior is necessary. The book is illustrated by Paul Henry.

Also on this list:

PERSONAL SALESMANSHIP, by Williams, EUROPE IN THE SPRING, Boothe; A BOY GROWS UP, McKown & Lebron; HERE LIES RICHARD BRINSLEY SHERIDAN, Foss; SAILING THE SULU SEA, Potter; INTERIOR ELECTRIC WIRING & ESTIMATING, Uhl; TOOL MAKING, Cole; THE GREAT NATURALIST'S EXPLORE SOUTH AMERICA, Cutright; WRITERS' PROGRAM—TEXAS; WRITER'S PROGRAM—NEW MEXICO; WRITERS' PROGRAM—OHIO.

The quota immigration law admits about 153,900 aliens annually.

MANSFIELD TO GET 'SALUTE'

Mansfield will receive a radio salute from station WTAM, Cleveland, at 10.30 p. m Friday, Nov. 29, officials of the station announced today.

Author Louis Bromfield, who has helped to bring fame to Mansfield, will speak on the program and aid in compiling information for the broadcast.

Bromfield's short story, "The Wedding Gown," which has Mansfield as its locale, will be read by a member of the station's staff. Fred Wilson, a Mansfielder who is now a member of the WTAM staff, will sing "Home Sweet Home."

The program will include a dramatization of incidents from the lives of Johnny Appleseed; John Sherman, former U. S senator, and Frank Carpenter, famous Mansfield journalist of several years ago, who recently was given a place in the Hall of Fame of Ohio journalism.

Halley's comet, most famous among those visible to the naked eye, was last seen in 1910 and will not be seen again until 1985.

FEDERATION SPEAKER TELLS OF REMOTE LAND

Gordon B. Enders Describes Political Intrigue of Far Off Tibet to Audience at Madison Theater.

MEMBERS of the Mansfield Federation of Women were figuratively whisked away to the formidable interior of Tibet yesterday morning when Gordon B. Enders spoke at the Madison theater on "Nowhere Else In the World." A native of Iowa, Enders went with his parents, Presbyterian missionaries, to the Far East when he was only four, and as a result learned the language and customs of a distant land before he learned those of his own.

His lecture, based on the book of the same title, is an autobiographical picture of the remote fastnesses of Tibet—a land that has never been penetrated by the white man. For 700 years Tibet has been regarded as a forbidden land, and the story of its strange and fascinating history was told by Enders, a man who had the good fortune to reach a position of title and rank in the Tibetan nobility.

By telling of his early childhood in a minute village near the Tibetan border, Enders was able to create a picture of life in those high plateaus on the world's roof where traders of all races and nationalities assembled in a type of market place, to do business, eat, sleep and exchange gossip. As a young man Enders became intimately acquainted with a Tibetan who served as an agent of his government, and later became acquainted with the Grand Lama who had as his purpose a world peace with Tibet as its center.

The Grand Lama is now dead, but his gilded and mumified figure is prayed to and revered by many who still believe in his purpose, and wish to carry it out.

Enders, telling of the intricate political intrigue surrounding this small province of China, the nature of the people, their customs, and their religious and spiritual life held his audience spellbound for more than an hour.

He ended his talk on a hopeful note, pointing out that the coming of the Japanese-Chinese war curtailed the Grand Lama's attempt to bring about his peace project, but that a time will come when white men will go into Tibet, bring the best of modern culture to the province, and help establish the peace which was so earnestly sought only a few years ago.

Mrs. Lester Redding, president of the Federation, introduced the speaker, and announced that Thanksgiving dinner will be served at the Women's Club all day Nov. 21.

Luncheon was served at the club house following the lecture. The next Federation meeting will be a bridge luncheon at 1 p. m. Dec. 12.

Informally Speaking...

By MARIANNE

IF YOU were to pick up the most recent issue of "The Wittenberg Torch," weekly newspaper on the Springfield college campus, you would find the picture of a Mansfielder, Edward M. Chatlain, on the front page. He recently was elected president of the senior class there. . . . And Ed ought to be a "heap big chief" at the college if blankets count. . . . In fact, maybe he should take his blankets on the platform when he has to make innumerable speeches toward the end of his senior year. . . . Having played three years on the football team, three years on the basketball team, and as many years on the baseball team, Ed (who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Chatlain) seems to be in line for three great athletic blankets—the all-time record at Wittenberg for preparing for cold winters under the colors of Alma Mater. . . . And incidentally, the story about his election was written by another Mansfield student at Wittenberg, Grover Swoyer, son of Rev. and Mrs. Grover E. Swoyer.

It is with reluctance that we must see some other residents of our town leave for another city. . . . Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Evans and their son, Danny, left today for Newark to make their home. . . . Mr. Evans will be the new enamel superintendent at the Newark Stove company. . . . Mrs. Evans was feted at a series of farewell parties before leaving, and her hostesses included Mrs. J. B. THIS is indeed an important week-end for Marge Zimmerman. She left today for South Bend, Ind., where she will attend the Sophomore Cotillion at Notre Dame university tonight. . . . Then tomorrow afternoon she will see the Iowa-Notre Dame football game and go to the Victory dance tomorrow night. . . . That sounds a little as though the Notre Dame students are counting chickens prematurely—calling a dance a Victory even before the game—but then they may be right. . . . Marge, by the way, will return home Sunday.

SWEATERS DRY SOFT, FLUFFY, WITH NEW HARD-WATER SUDS!

Imagine! VEL suds makes no hard-water scum to harden the Texture and gray the Colors of Woolens! What's more, this new suds works 5 times better than any soap in this Hard Water!

ARE YOU SICK OF SEEING HARD-WATER SCUM turn soft, fluffy woolens rough, hard and gray? Are you tired of fighting this hard water trying in vain to get billows of fleecy, white suds?

THEN SWITCH TO VEL, an amazing new type of suds, that works 5 times better in hardest water than any soap you ever used, cup for cup. Yes, with VEL, the harder the water, the bigger the suds. Yes, in safe, cool water, VEL makes mountains of rich, sudsy suds almost instantly. And VEL is economical, too. It takes only ⅓ as much VEL to do the job as soap flakes.

YOU'RE PLEASED AS PUNCH, because VEL suds make no hard-water scum to gray down the fresh colors of woolens and dainty fabrics, to leave them stiff and "wooden."

BUY VEL TODAY, and see why women with "hard-water blues" sing out the praises of this new type suds.

VEL is a Neutral Hydrophilic Detergent. Made by the Colgate-Palmolive-Peet Co.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"Auntie Madge!" Marion's voice said stressfully before I could exclaim in my astonishment. "Don't say my name over the wire. Uncle Dicky mustn't know I'm talking to you. If you can't agree to that, I can't talk to you. And I must tell you some things. I do need you so."

I must discover her whereabouts. That was the first thing that came to my mind. Yet I must move with infinite caution, for something told me that she did not mean me to know where she was. She had a message to give me, and when she had given it, she meant to vanish again, with no trace of her left behind.

I did not know why this conviction had come to me about the sheltered young girl whom we all loved so devotedly. But it was in my heart, and it was like a sharp rowel to my determination.

"Just a second, please," I said. "My child is crying. Will you hold the line a second?"

"Of course, dear little Faith," she murmured. "But hurry, won't you?"

"Yes, of course," I said, and turning put my finger to my lips as I saw Dicky's lips open for speech.

He closed them again, but his eyes were bright with questioning as I skimmed across the room and put my lips close to his ear.

"It's Marion," I murmured, with my fingers across his lips now. "She won't tell me where she is, and she's going directly away again as soon as she gives me a message. No, it will be of no use for you to talk to her," as he started rebelliously, and I fathomed his impulse. "But please go at once to Father's own telephone, get Central, and try to trace the place from which this call is coming. Father will have facilities for finding it. He may even be able to get somebody to the place in time to hold her there."

"I am so sorry to have kept you waiting," I said with the same tone I would have used to any stranger when I had again picked up the receiver. "Now how can I serve you?"

"You can promise me first of all that you won't try to find out where I am," she said determinedly, and I gave a little gasp at the disaster I had skirted.

Thankful indeed was I that I already had sent Dicky into action. I could give her the pledge she asked without hesitation. I did not need to lift a finger in any endeavor to find her. Dicky would do everything that was necessary.

"That is a hard condition, Marion," I said, and she gave a dismayed gasp.

"You said my name. I must go."

"Nobody is here in this room save myself," I assured her hurriedly. "Nobody can hear you."

But even in my stress I was wondering why she, probably miles away, felt that she must fly at once, simply because her name was mentioned.

"Oh, all right," she said. "And I'm sorry for the condition. But I have to make it."

"Do you know Marion, that your mother is in almost a state of collapse because of this?" I asked sternly, and I heard her catch her breath in a sob.

"Yes, I know," she said, and then I heard another sound which made me catch my own breath in amazement.

"Scat! Melinda!" the voice said, and added, "That dratted cat!"

"The Authority on Authorities"

REFUSE TO BE LICKED.

Have you ever counted up the number of winners and losers in your own hand and the dummy, and found apparent way to avoid being set a trick? If that is the case, you have a choice of two alternatives. You may go ahead and play the hand according to what seems to be the natural way, and take your licking. Or you may study a bit more to see if there isn't some way to prevent a loser or two, perhaps by some sort of coup, squeeze or lead-throwing end-play. A great percentage of all these plays are made by declarers who seemed to be licked, but refused to be.

North and South had a part score of 10, so that 3-Diamonds constituted a game bid. North's 4-Diamonds was therefore a mild slam try. South accepted the invitation by using the Blackwood convention, and when his partner's response showed two aces, he was ready for small slam. His enthusiasm fell when he saw the dummy, upon West's lead of the heart K. There were apparently two losers to be disposed of in that suit, and no way to dispose of them.

A bit of study showed South a method. After taking the first trick with dummy's heart A, he led the spade Q, covered by the K and A, settled the trumps with two rounds, and realized that East was almost surely out of red cards, since West figured to have a five-card heart suit. If this was so he could make his contract, by stripping his two hands of black cards.

So he played to the club A, ruffed the spade 3, ruffed the club J in dummy, then led the spade 4 discarding the heart 5. East, of course, had to win the spade, and it was his lead. With only black cards, of which South had none, he returned a club. Declarer threw his last heart on it and trumped in the dummy, so that he had no more losers and made his contract.

Sorority Plans Sunday Affair

A guest tea for the pledges of Sigma Kappa Gamma will be given Sunday afternoon at the Colonial Guest House on the Wooster road. Plans were formulated for this affair during a meeting last evening at the home of Miss Marilyn Wright on West Sixth street. Miss Dorothy Leech will be chairman of the affair, assisted by the Misses Marguerite Boyer, Vivian Walter, Marjorie Walker, Naomi Velzy, Dorothy Kelly and last evening's hostess.

Miss Leech, Miss Jeanne Scott, Miss Dorothy Blackstone and Mrs. Richard James will have charge of a Thanksgiving basket to be given by the group next week. A rummage sale has been scheduled for Nov. 30, with Miss Eileen Minard, Miss Kathryn Landfair, and Miss Helen Lanzen serving on the committee.

The place of the next meeting, Nov. 28, will be announced later. Hostesses at that time will be Miss Walter and Miss Charlotte Brightbill. Miss Walker was the associate hostess last evening.

Varied Program Given At Franklin Arts Club

The regular monthly meeting of the Brinkerhoff P. T. A. was held last night at the school with tap dances by Clark Yerigan and Ward Fate opening the program. Readings were given by Erma Jenkins and Patsy Frank. "Education for Tomorrow's America" was the title of the play given by 6th grade pupils.

Those taking part were Joan Fay, Nancy Schultz, Jim Kochheiser, Barbara Bailey, John Spear, William Jessop, Roy Anderson, Harold Leppert, William Bishop, Marjorie Van Allen, Dick Sell, Jack Fay and Patty Lybarger. Arthur L. Glattke, superintendent of the Ohio State Reformatory, spoke on "Education and Youth."

During the business session arrangements were made to present playground equipment to the South Park-Maple Lake association. Community singing was led by Barbara Bailey. C. C. Secrist's class won the attendance record. The hospitality committee included Mr. and Mrs. William Bishop, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Robbins and Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Griffin.

A covered-dish dinner was served to members of Circle One of the First Methodist church yesterday when Mrs. B. A. Spear, 155 Bartley avenue. There were 16 present. Mrs. S. S Little was in charge of the program and Mrs. Charles McKinley led the devotions. No arrangements were made for the next meeting.

ROUTINE SESSION.

Members of the Pocahontas lodge had a routine session last night at the Eagle hall with 35 present. Mrs. Mary Somers, representative to the recent district school of instruction held here, gave her report, and Mrs. Nora Mink was awarded the contest prize. The next meeting will be held Nov. 28 after which the lodge will have a regular monthly birthday party.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"Auntie Madge!" Marion's voice said stressfully before I could exclaim in my astonishment. "Don't say my name over the wire. Uncle Dicky mustn't know I'm talking to you. If you can't agree to that, I can't talk to you. And I must tell you some things. I do need you so."

I must discover her whereabouts. That was the first thing that came to my mind. Yet I must move with infinite caution, for something told me that she did not mean me to know where she was. She had a message to give me, and when she had given it, she meant to vanish again, with no trace of her left behind.

I did not know why this conviction had come to me about the sheltered young girl whom we all loved so devotedly. But it was in my heart, and it was like a sharp rowel to my determination.

"Just a second, please," I said. "My child is crying. Will you hold the line a second?"

"Of course, dear little Faith," she murmured. "But hurry, won't you?"

"Yes, of course," I said, and turning put my finger to my lips as I saw Dicky's lips open for speech.

He closed them again, but his eyes were bright with questioning as I skimmed across the room and put my lips close to his ear.

"It's Marion," I murmured, with my fingers across his lips now. "She won't tell me where she is, and she's going directly away again as soon as she gives me a message. No, it will be of no use for you to talk to her," as he started rebelliously, and I fathomed his impulse. "But please go at once to Father's own telephone, get Central, and try to trace the place from which this call is coming. Father will have facilities for finding it. He may even be able to get somebody to the place in time to hold her there."

"I am so sorry to have kept you waiting," I said with the same tone I would have used to any stranger when I had again picked up the receiver. "Now how can I serve you?"

"You can promise me first of all that you won't try to find out where I am," she said determinedly, and I gave a little gasp at the disaster I had skirted.

Thankful indeed was I that I already had sent Dicky into action. I could give her the pledge she asked without hesitation. I did not need to lift a finger in any endeavor to find her. Dicky would do everything that was necessary.

"That is a hard condition, Marion," I said, and she gave a dismayed gasp.

"You said my name, I must go."

"Nobody is here in this room save myself," I assured her hurriedly. "Nobody can hear you."

But even in my stress I was wondering why she, probably miles away, felt that she must fly at once, simply because her name was mentioned.

"Oh, all right," she said. "And I'm sorry for the condition. But I have to make it."

"Do you know Marion, that your mother is in almost a state of collapse because of this?" I asked sternly, and I heard her catch her breath in a sob.

"Yes, I know," she said, and then I heard another sound which made me catch my own breath in amazement.

"Scat! Melinda!" the voice said, and added, "That dratted cat!"

STRENGTH IN STOCK MARKET CONTINUES

Some Leaders Down Fractions Today; Steels, Motors Lack Rising Power.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Selective strength continued in today's stock market but most leaders backed down fractionally.

Bids were reduced slightly at the start. Dealings were relatively light and a little buying came in here and there near the second hour.

Lacking much rising power were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet, Chrysler, General Motors, Sears Roebuck, Boeing, United Aircraft, American Telephone, North American, American Smelting, Du Pont, American Can, N. Y. Central, Pennsylvania and Standard Oil of N. J.

Bonds and commodities were irregular.

Among favorable market straws was the survey of Dun & Bradstreet estimating this week's retail activities throughout the nation were maintained at a high level despite bad weather conditions in most sections.

Notice was taken of forecasts of some economists that actual defense expenditures may be running at the rate of $650,000,000 monthly by next June.

BERLIN HIT BY HEAVY ATTACKS

British Report Devastating Raids Made on Hitler's Capital City.

east of the center of the German capital.

Tempelhof airdrome, in the southeastern suburbs, again was the objective of heavy British attack, and great fires were set there, according to the air ministry.

Eight British Planes Downed

BERLIN — (U.P.) — Eight British bombers were shot down last night in one of the heaviest attacks of the war on Berlin, a communique said today.

The communique said there was "no damage worth mentioning," but informed sources said four persons were killed and one injured and that an apartment house was demolished by a bomb. Two of the British planes were said to have started big fires when they crashed, and splinters from anti-aircraft shells damaged houses.

The air raid alarm caught the home-going theater crowd in the streets. On emerging from shelters when the all clear signal sounded, they swamped buses, subways and street cars and caused a tremendous traffic jam.

The communique said that "by different routes, stronger units of the Royal Air Force than previously flew into Germany to bomb the Reich capital.

Most of the raiders were headed off, but 10 or 15 reached the Berlin area, it continued.

Three of the raiders were shot down in west Germany, one just outside the Berlin barrage ring, and four within the city area, according to the communique.

Attends Funeral — Mrs. A. H. Lewis, 10 Glenwood boulevard, left for Akron yesterday to attend the funeral of her brother, Msgr. John J. Scullen, pastor of St. Vincent's Roman Catholic church there, who died Thursday.

Speeder Fined—Pleading guilty in municipal court this morning to a charge of speeding, Wayne L. Healy, 11 Clairmont avenue, was fined $10 and costs. He was arrested yesterday by state highway patrolmen who accused him of driving 70 miles an hour on U. S. route 42.

Garbage Bills Due — Approximately 4,700 customers of the municipal garbage service were notified today that payment for collection service during the next three months is due at the office of the water, sewer and garbage departments at City hall before Nov. 25. Fred E. Lingafelter, secretary, said the bills totaled $8,700.

Italian Fleet Declined Challenge for Taranto Battle

BRITISH RAID FAILS TO LURE FOE FROM PORT

News Man Accompanies Royal Navy on Patrol Voyage In Mediterranean.

By RICHARD C. McMILLAN
(UP Staff Correspondent)

WITH THE BRITISH MEDITERRANEAN FLEET — (Delayed) — It can be told now that when the air arm of the fleet bombed Taranto harbor Monday night most of Italy's navy—hundreds of fighting ships of all sizes and descriptions—were riding at anchor there.

And lined up in battle array, just outside the harbor, virtually the whole British Mediterranean fleet — rows of battleships, cruisers, destroyers and other craft stretching for 25 miles—stood in wait.

The airplanes were sent in primarily to route the Italians from their snug harbor for a fight. The destruction they did with bombs and aerial torpedoes was to have been only incidental to a naval battle such as the world never had seen, if the Italians had accepted the challenge. They didn't accept it, even though their force outnumbered the British even when the airplanes got through with them.

I saw and heard the airplanes take the challenge to Taranto from the deck of a British heavy cruiser. The fliers did their job, and all but two of the planes came back. Then, like a policeman on the beat, we steamed back and forth between the Greek islands and the heel of the Italian boot for more than 24 hours waiting for the Italian ships to come out. They never did.

The British stand before Taranto was the final phase of a 3,000-mile sweep of the Mediterranean, from end to end. I accompanied it all the way, and was shown beyond doubt that the British control the sea.

After steaming to every corner of the Mediterranean, and loitering in the narrow straits of Pantellaria off Sicily in a vain attempt to lure the Italian fleet from port, it was decided that the only chance to get a decisive battle would be a rousing blow at Taranto, where the main body of Italy's fleet was known to be.

We approached the Greek islands at night, all crews at battle stations.

Suddenly pompom fire lit the sky. A false alarm had been given. In the distance there was thunder of heavy guns as the advance force in the Otranto straits encountered an Italian convoy bound for Albania. Simultaneously the air was filled with SOS calls from sinking Italian ships.

Then British airplanes took off. I saw them disappear over the Italian coast line then sweep down upon the harbor. I could hear heavy explosions inside the bay. Back and forth, all night long, the planes operated.

Wife Strangler Pays With Life In Prison Chair

MALESTER, Okla.—(U.P.)—Roger Cunningham, 34, tossed aside a half-smoked cigar early today, carefully seated himself in the electric chair at Oklahoma state prison and was electrocuted for strangling his pretty wife to death. Both had been prominent members of Oklahoma City society.

He was strapped in the chair at 1:08 (EST), and pronounced dead five minutes later, after two 45-second shocks.

Just before he walked to the death chamber, Cunningham, a former government employe, had stood outside his cell, smoking and talking to Herbert K. Hyde, his attorney.

"Tell my wife's mother that I want her to forgive me for causing so much grief and anxiety," he told Hyde. "God has forgiven me and I am ready to go."

He had nothing to say in the death chamber.

Democrats Seek Legislature Recognition

Six Richland county farm families went back today to the "good old days" when they used to make their own mattresses but this time they used cotton and not corn husks. Working in the North Lake park pavilion on a Farm Security administration project, the group hoped to complete two mattresses by night and then call a recess for several days. Three bales of surplus cotton were shipped here from the south by the federal government to provide "stuffing" for the mattresses. Farm families who are operating their homes under the FSA plan get to keep the mattresses they make.

Patrolman Howard Schuck and Wade Schaaf experienced what they termed the "thrill of a lifetime" last night. Returning from Sandusky, a large object loomed in front of their car just south of Fitchville on route 13 and smashed against the windshield. After gaining their composure, they crawled from the machine and found that the object was a great horned owl — that is, what was left of one.

Belated Story of the Big Wind: When the baby cyclone was shaking Mansfield this week a newsboy at Park avenue and Main was kept busy looking after his papers. When the steel mail box was swept over by the wind he sought sanctuary in a near-by store. "The courthouse," he announced solemnly, "is going just like this—swaying back and forth! I seen it with my own eyes—and I ain't been drinkin' either!" He was about 10 years old.

Kiwanis club members and their wives went back to the days of the "flickering fillums" last night when the club staged its annual "Ladies' Night" party at the Mansfield Leland. As a part of the entertainment, moving pictures of such old favorites as Mary Pickford, Fatty Arbucle, and Charlie Chaplin were shown to the gathering, and the same equipment used in the "Dreamland" nickelodeon, located next to the Brunswick hotel nearly 40 years ago, was used again last night. "Ollie" Crouse, operator of the old "Dreamland," claims the equipment to be the first of its kind in Mansfield.

ILLNESS FATAL

Mrs. Sophia Sickinger, 69, Dies at Convalescent Home.

Mrs. Sophia Sickinger, 68, widow of G. F. Sickinger, died Thursday afternoon at the Hammond Convalescent home, 190 Park avenue west, after a long illness.

She was born in Kansas Jan. 22, 1872 and came to Mahsfield 50 years ago.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Myrtle Ward of Mansfield; two step daughters, Mrs. Grace Thompson of Mansfield and Mrs. John DeLauder of Toledo; and a grandson.

The body was removed to the Wappner funeral home where services will be held Saturday at 2 p. m. Burial will be in the Lexington cemetery.

GAIL PATRICK GETS DIVORCE

Freed Because Husband Didn't Keep Engagements.

HOLLYWOOD—(NS)—Gail Patrick, the screen actress, held a divorce today from Robert Cobb, Hollywood restaurateur and baseball club official. She had charged cruelty.

Cobb, she said, failed to keep social engagements with her and at one time told her he didn't wish to be married.

When the court asked her if she didn't know about Cobb's disposition before they were married, Miss Patrick smiled and said:

"You see, we're both Irish."

A son, born to Mr. and Mrs. John France, R. D. 2, Bellville, at General hospital yesterday morning.

FATHER ADMITS MERCY KILLING

Struck Blind, Crippled Son Because He 'Felt Sorry For Him.'

(By Associated Press)

TOLEDO—A typewriter repair man, arrested here and identified by police as Norman Burgoyne, 33, was returned today to Portland, Me., to face murder charges for the alleged "mercy killing" of his blind, crippled, five-year-old son, Robert.

Just before leaving here Burboyne signed a confession that he struck the boy fatally with his fist because "I felt sorry for him." Detective Ralph Murphy reported.

One of Burgayne's first duties will be to help locate the body. Murphy said Burgoyne related that he and his wife buried the boy in a woods 30 miles from their home in Scarboro south of Portland.

At first, Burgoyne claimed he fell down stairs with the child but finally, Murphy reported, he confessed that when he and Robert were alone in the house he went to the child's bed and, looking down, felt sorry for him.

"I thought how much better off he would be dead," Murphy said Burgoyne related, and then he picked the child up and struck him. He told his wife about it when she came home.

Receiving a police circular describing Burgoyne, Murphy visited typewriter shops here and located him. He admitted his identity, Murphy said.

MRS. STOUFER DIES AT ASHLAND

Lingering Illness Fatal to Ashland County Native.

ASHLAND—A resident of Ashland county all her life, Mrs. W. O. Stoufer, 58, died at 5:40 a. m. today at Samaritan hospital following a lingering illness.

Besides her husband, she is survived by two sons, Fred and Kenneth Stoufer, both of Ashland; her mother, Mrs. Irene Steward of Funk; four sisters, Mrs. Grace Springer and Mrs. Ethel Sowers, both of Jeromesville, and Mrs. Hope Weltner and Mrs. Charity Richey, both of Ashland; and three grandchildren.

Mrs. Stoufer was a member of the Methodist church, Paramount avenue Circle, and Order of Eastern Star.

Funeral services will be held Monday at 2 p. m. at the Denbow-Bear funeral home with Dr. A. A. Hunter, pastor of the Methodist church, officiating. Burial will be made in Ashland cemetery. The body will be at the funeral home, where friends may call, until after the services.

EXCISE RECEIPTS

COLUMBUS — (NS) — Cigaret manufacturers and distributors, brewers and wine merchants bought $1,634,609 worth of Ohio excise stamps for their respective businesses during October, State Treasurer Don H. Ebright reported today. He said this income exceeded that of the same month of last year by 8.2 per cent.

STEPHEN FOSTER'S NAME VOTED INTO AMERICA'S HALL OF FAME

NEW YORK — (AP) — A song writer who died penniless, obscure and broken in spirit at the age of 38 has just been elected to the hall of fame.

A commemorative tablet and bust honoring his memory will be placed among those of 72 other great Americans next spring.

The name on it will be "Stephen Collins Foster."

He's the first musician ever named one of America's immortals.

He wrote down-to-earth, folksy, easy-to-sing songs. He wrote them to pay the rent, to buy a few meals. And for most of them, he got only a few dollars each.

They were never-to-be-forgotten songs. Such as "Old Black Joe," "Old Folks At Home," "Jeannie With the Light Brown Hair," "My Old Kentucky Home," "O Susanna," and "Massa's in de Cold, Cold Ground."

At the age of 14, he wrote "Tioga Waltz." From then until his death in New York City Jan. 13, 1864, he turned out more than 200 songs, a dozen instrumental compositions and several musical arrangements.

He hated formal education. And he had to drive himself to compose as a rule. Even during 1860, when his career was at its peak with the publication of "Old Black Joe," he was on the verge of quitting several times.

But he kept on composing because he had to.

His name was first submitted to the hall of fame electors in 1930. He received only seven votes then. In 1935, he drew 25 votes; that automatically nominated him for this year's election.

Last night, Dr. Harry Woodburn Chase, chancellor of New York university and director pro tem of the hall of fame, announced that Foster was the only one of 141 nominated candidates to receive the required three-fifths vote of the 110 distinguished Americans who comprise the college of electors. It was the first time, since the founding of the hall of fame in 1900, that only one nominee was selected.

COURT DATE SET

Scouts of Area To Hold Honor Session In Mansfield.

The first Mansfield district boy scout Court of Honor since summer camp closed will be held Wednesday in the Elks building at 7:45 p. m., Floyd Dent, Johnny Appleseed area executive, announced today.

First and second class and merit badges will be awarded at the court, Dent said. Star, Life and Eagle awards will be made at the Johnny Appleseed area Court of Honor Nov. 28.

J. Leo Hartman, chairman of the Mansfield district Court of Honor, will be in charge of the court. W. J. Bissman, W. J. Harrison, M. P. Wolcott and C. I. Kimmel comprise the remainder of the committee.

HARMONY HIT BY RACE FOR LEADERSHIP

Holmes County Representative Says He's 'Available' For Party Job.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—Democratic members-elect of the 94th Ohio general assembly, expecting to command more attention than their brethren in the 93rd, are in the midst of another internal political campaign.

Candidates already are soliciting votes for the leadership of the 16 Democrats in the senate and 60 Democrats in the house, although the legislature will not convene until January.

Senator William M. Boyd of Cleveland and Maurice W. Lipsher of Youngstown are reported to be angling for the leadership of their party in the senate.

They sought the post two years ago, but the eight-member Democratic minority could not agree and William J. Zoul of Cleveland took over the position and its perquisites in a compromise.

Zoul said today that he isn't a candidate—"the job is just a lot of headaches" but quickly added that he would be willing to serve "for the sake of harmony" in event of another stalemate.

Incidentally, he declared that the senate Democrats, now stronger, would insist upon more patronage than the two stenographers they were granted by the Republican majority two years ago.

Bishop Kilpatrick of Warren, returning to the house for his third term, is conducting an active campaign for the Democratic leadership in his chamber. He was majority leader in the 1937-38 session.

He already has sent announcements of his candidacy to some of the members-elect, 40 of whom he served with in the 82nd general assembly.

Rep. A. Lee Fair of Holmes county, said "I'm available."

The two senior Democrats of the house, with five terms—Reps. George J. Harter of Akron and Patrick J. Dunn of Tuscarawas county—prefer to plod along in the ranks.

"I'm interested only in getting married women off the state payroll," asserted Dunn, who has fought for several years to achieve that objective.

The senate Democrats will attempt to select a leader in a caucus here Sunday, Nov. 24, Zoul said. Harter and Dunn indicated house Democrats would caucus late next month.

$2,000 Damage Action Results From Girl's Injuries.

A $2,000 damage suit involving a traffic accident on West Fourth street last June 6 had been filed today in common pleas court by Evelyn House, 166 West Fourth street, against Frank and Michael Miller, 111 Wayne street.

The plaintiff, a minor, seeks damages for injuries she received when struck by a car driven by Frank Miller as she walked across the street. Several ribs were fractured and she received severe lacerations, Miss House states in her petition.

Jack House filed the action in behalf of Miss House. Atty. Galen Renkenberger is counsel for her.

The Voice of BROADWAY

—By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

You Meet Such Interesting People.

Georgie Hale, the producer, aways buys a morning paper from the newsboy in front of the Shubert theater, because he used to be a newsboy himself in that same spot—just outside the theater that now houses his big hit, the Al Jolson show. . . .

Charlie Chaplin upsets night club waiters no end by ordering hot chocolate instead of the usual Scotch and soda. . . . Kay Paulsen, the showgirl who plays "Miss 21" in the night club sequence of the Ed Wynn frolics, has never been inside "21" . . . Just thought Jack and Charlie should know. They might want to invite her in for a hamburger. . . .

Only time I've ever seen Don Ameche without his toothy grin was once when he looked down and saw that his shoelace had come undone while he was jiving on a dance floor.

* * *

Alice Marble would rather be complimented on her singing than her tennis. . . . Benny Fields uses the word "schmaltz" in every other sentence. . . . Nobody knows what Frances Faye calls someone she really adores, because she calls everybody "lover" . . .

Margie Hart has never had a cold since she became a stripteaser. She claims working in a few beads on drafty stages develops her resistance to colds.

Jimmy Durante would just as soon tell his gags to bell hops as deliver them to a Broadway audience. . . . Grover Whalen stopped wearing gardenias a long time ago, but when you think of him, isn't that what you think of? . . .

Sinclair Lewis does pitiless imitations of his fellow writers. . . . Noel Coward has a habit of walking along a street with his right hand in his pocket.

Edna St. Vincent Millay, who is so fluent at polishing off a poem, flounders over the composition of a 10-word telegram . . . Hoagy Carmichael once hitch-hiked to Hollywood with a manuscripts of his "Stardust" and "Lazybones," but there weren't any takers. So he returned to New York and became a bank clerk. . . .

Dorothy Bigby, the Diamond Horseshoe specialty dancer, has an ambition to meet—not Clark Gable or Charles Boyer—but Jascha Heifetz. . . . Bill Robinson's first show (that was 50 years ago) paid him $5 a week. . . . Major Bowes writes poetry in his spare time—gong! . . .

Now that the baseball season is over, George M. Cohan doesn't know what to do. . . . Greta Keller, the Viennese singer, can cook the national dish of almost every country in the world—including pieces re desistances from the Orient.

Joan Crawford is an inveterate knitter. . . . Arthur Treacher, when he dances, looks like a Vanderbilt butler cavorting at the Butler's ball. . . .

Grace Gilren, the "Lousiana Purchase" beauty, once wanted to be a famous woman detective—and even now she buys all the detective and crime magazines on the newsstands. . . . Paul Whiteman won't broadcast a program of music until he first has recorded the rehearsal and listened to a playback. . . .

Jerry Cooper, the singer, shares a dressing room with Dave Apollon, the guitar-player, backstage at the Ed Wynn show, and he has been painstakingly trying to help Apollon get rid of his thick Russian accent. But so far, he's only succeeded in giving him a slight Southern drawl!

Orson Welles wears velvet vests. . . . Norman bel Geddes is against paying cover charges in night clubs. Ernest Hemingway likes caviar. . . . Jimmy Dorsey, the swing maestro, is so busy making jive he hasn't even get time to read a digest magazine. So he has his secretary give him digests of the digest magazine articles! . . .

Elsie Houston, the Rainbow Room singer, is so psychic it is embassarring to her. She can read people's minds, and although she tries not to, she frequently finds herself blushing.

Alexander Woolcott likes to upset people by tossing them scurrilous bits of information—to make them relax. . . . Fred Allen has scripts of corny old vaudeville routines, and his private renditions of these are even funnier than the smart lines he uses on his radio show. . . .

Lyn Logan, the blonde glamor girl in the Phil Baker show, has beautiful jewels and furs but calls herself "the lonesomest girl in town." Her only companions are her two dogs—"White Mousie" and "Timmie," gifts of the Duchess of Kent and the Rajah of Kapula. . . .

* * *

Sophie Tucker likes to dance. . . . John Buckmaster has done an average of one benefit a week since May for British relief. . . . Henny Youngman is funny at the Hurricane. But he's even funnier when he hurls impromptu insults at an unfortunate motion picture.

George Jean Nathan spares no words in knocking a bad play, but he still looks as though he wore Buster Brown collars when he was a little boy.

Lucy Monroe, the girl who always sings the Star Spangled Banner, is expecting a live turkey any morning now. For the past four years she has been getting one from an anonymous admirer every Thanksgiving.

Three Mansfield Lads Win Bouts In Amateur Show

Two Other Boys Lose Matches To Tough Foes

Carbetta Takes Decision From Clevelander In Feature Bout; Glover Triumphs.

By CHARLES MARTIN, News-Journal Sports Editor.

MANSFIELD amateur leather slingers gave a real demonstration of how they handle out-of-town mittsters last night before some 300 spectators in the Saprano-Doehla Athletic club show.

Three of the five Mansfielders emerged with decisive triumphs while the fourth lad dropped a close decision and the fifth had the misfortune of running into Beauford Glover, former Mansfield boy.

Mel McKinley, 118, of Mansfield met Sammy Derrico 122, 1940 Cleveland Golden Gloves champion and dropped a decision after a hectic three-round mixup.

Nate Robinson, a welterweight from Mansfield CCC camp, tangled with Glover in a five-round battle and lost by a knockout in one minute and 14 seconds of the fifth heat.

Carbetta, who is developing into a smooth fighting machine, put up one of his best fights in decisioning Babe Galeno rugged Cleveland fighter.

Paul led the fight from the opening gong and stung Babe with lightning rights numerous times. The Clevelander was holding on in the fourth round and then came back to give Carbetta a little trouble in the fifth.

Paul, however, took every round by a shade and twice floored Babe for no counts. It was Carbetta's fight all the way.

Sauer was the lad who gave the fans the biggest surprise. He has only been fighting for a year, but his ring work is impressive. He faced John Turner, 1939 Marion tournament champion, and dusted him off in one minute and 27 seconds of the first round.

Both lads began throwing leather at the gong and Sauer never let up until a right sent Turner to the canvas.

Carmel has been idle for a couple of years and he didn't get much of a workout last night. Phil Ober 135, of Ashland, was his opponent and Carmel measured him with a right in two minutes and 35 seconds of the second frame.

Bob Miller, former Loudonville high football star, showed he can tangle with stiff opposition when he took a decision from Henry Jackson a Cleveland veteran.

Miller using a left jab with telling results, held the edge in the first two rounds, but he appeared tired in the third heat and Jackson won the round.

Ed Tally, 118 of Crestline dropped Kid Desanio, 115, Cleveland in one minute and 42 seconds of the second round.

Glover who is fighting out of a Cleveland stable, found Robinson a willing rival. The Mansfield CCC camp boxer had a sweet left and he tried to keep it in Beauford's face.

Beauford 1940 Cleveland Golden Gloves championship, who won a three-round bout at Cleveland Tuesday night didn't look fired but h had trouble in landing his dynamite right until the fifth.

* * *

Here's Robinson Just Before He Hit Canvas

Nate Robinson, right, welterweight from the Mansfield CCC camp is shown just before he kissed the canvas after Beauford Glover landed a dynamite right on his jaw. It happened after one minute and 14 seconds of fighting in the fifth and final round. Nate's seconds had to revive him before he could leave the ring. For four rounds Robinson gave Glover trouble. Glover, a former Mansfielder, and holder of the 1940 Cleveland Golden Gloves lightweight title, held the edge most of the time.

16 Games On Tap For Ohio Grid Squads

Ohio State-Illinois Tilt Tops Saturday's Program.

COLUMBUS (AP)—A 16-game program headlined by Ohio State's invasion of Illinois for a Western conference scrap with the battling Illini, is on tap for the Buckeye State's collegiate grid squads Saturday, leaving only 11 contests on the season's calendar.

The Saturday events drop the curtain on the campaigns of Baldwin-Wallace, Kent State, Wooster, Oberlin, De Sales, Defiance, Mount Union, Youngstown, Bluffton, Denison, Muskingum, Ohio Northern, Alfred Holbrook and Rio Grande.

Five Ohio conference trays, with practically all the leaders seeing action, are on the card. The league contests are Baldwin Wallace at Kent State, Wooster at Oberlin, Wittenberg at Mount Union, Denison at Muskingum, and Heidelberg at Ohio Northern.

Tygers Close Season At Shelby Tomorrow

THE Mansfield Tygers ring down the curtain on their 1940 football season tomorrow afternoon when they invade Shelby for their annual contest with the Shelby high Whippets.

The tilt is scheduled for 2:30 p. m. and will be played at W. W. Skiles athletic field.

With Bill Doolittle and Jim Templeton back for regular duty, the Tygers will enter the game at full strength. Both players have been out of the lineup for over a week with injuries and their return is expected to bolster the Tyger running attack.

The game is the final one for the two teams this season. Coach Paul Snyder's proteges have won four and lost four, and will be after this contest in an effort to finish the season above the .500 per cent mark.

Shelby has dropped only one game this season, that one to Marion, and shares the North Central Ohio conference football championship with Bucyrus and Marion.

* * *

The rally closed with a snake dance through the downtown district, led by the high school band.

Erstwhile Muskingum Stars Lead Carrollton Combine

THREE erstwhile Muskingum college football stars will lead the Carrollton Indians into Mansfield to meet the Automotive Supply semi-pro gridders in a tilt at 2:30 p. m. at the Fairground.

In the Indians' lineup are Harry Adams, and Beanie Patton, halfback, and Aikenhead, a tackle. All three are now coaching but have been playing with the undefeated Indians all season.

Patton is the mainstay of the Indians' attack. His is a triple threat star and scored both touchdowns against the Supplies last season as Carrollton won 12 to 0.

Carrollton comes here with a record of five wins and one tie. The Supplies, who have won two games in a row was the team to hold the Indians to a 6-6 deadlock early this season.

Coach Earl McMullen's Supplies have had a week's rest and are in fine shape for the tussle.

The Carrollton combine's forward wall averages round 190 with the backfield near the 170 mark.

OHIO GRIDDERS ENTRAIN FOR DANVILLE, ILL.

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Perpetual standout two-year-old trotter of last season, was purchased last night for $2,300 by Dr. L. M. Gullinger of Andover, O., as the three-day harness horse auction ended at the state fairgrounds.

Gullinger whose Peter Astra won the Hambletonian stake in 1939 took Perpetual from the consignment of Dr. Hugh M. Parshall of Urbana, O.

ILLINI POSTPONES POLO MEET WITH OHIO STATE

COLUMBUS (AP)—Illinois university's polo team postponed today's scheduled game with Ohio State university yesterday because the Buckeye field was not in condition due to the recent storms. Ohio State instead will play Illinois on the Ohio field.

OHIO DOCTOR PURCHASES TROTTER FOR $2,300

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio State university's Buckeyes, ready for the 29th gridiron meeting with Illinois Saturday, left Columbus today for Danville, Ill., where they will await game time.

For the first time since the season opened the Bucks are free from injuries, and the 36 making the trip represent full strength. At Danville, the squad will work out on the Veterans hospital grounds where a former Ohio State star, "Chic" Harley, is a patient.

BOWLING SCORES

Sophie Meder, who pounded out a 200 in the middle game, came through with a fine 569 to set the pace in the Women's bowling league at the Meder Recreation alleys.

Sophie, a member of the Carek Florist team, started out with a 177 and finished with a 192 score. Her team, however, lost two matches to the Brenner Jewelers.

Margaret Baker of the Morgan Dry Cleaners, and Thelma Linster of the Richland Printers were the only others to break 500. Margaret had a 513, and Thelma a 505.

Eugene Funston of the All State Freights, set the pace for men with a 621 total. He collected his score on games of 213, 203 and 205.

Barker Picks Michigan Over Northwestern

Also Gives Nod to Georgetown, Texas Aggies In Weekly Selections.

By HERB BARKER

NEW YORK—(AP)—The weekly attempt to march through the football list (hoping to escape too many offside penalties):

Michigan-Northwestern: Add this one up any way you want to and it still looks razor-close. There's some doubt whether Tommy Harmon will be in perfect shape and this vote for Michigan is predicated on the assumption that he will be.

Boston college-Georgetown: Two of the biggest teams in the country collide in a duel of unbeaten untied forces. Nothing but the corn can help and it falls . . . Georgetown.

Minnesota-Purdue: The Gophers are over the highest hurdles, Minnesota.

Rice-Texas A. & M.: It seems the Aggies are just as good as they have to be and that's plenty good. Texas A. & M.

Stanford-Oregon State: Stan-

Naturally Carbonated!

Ordinary beers are carbonated artificially! This is done by a mechanical injection of carbonic gas after the beer has gone through a single fermentation. In the slow, unhurried Kraeusening Process which brews E and B Special Beer, carbonation is natural. Here, a second fermentation permits the beer to absorb its own natural gases slowly and thoroughly! Natural carbonation seasons the beer and seals-in all its original flavor and goodness! To be certain of getting a naturally carbonated beer, always ask for Kraeusen-Brewed E and B Special Beer!

Only KRAEUSENED BEER is:
• Doubly-Fermented!
• Naturally-Carbonated!
• Mellow-Aged Weeks Longer!

Ashland Runner Expected To Cop Cross-Country Meet

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS—(AP)—This and that from here and there in the Buckeye sports realm:

* * *

That big barrage you heard at noon today was the opening of Ohio's own private war on rabbits and pheasant, and the chances are this column was the only one to score a complete miss as the nimrods went over the top.

* * *

Gil Dodds of Ashland is expected to win the 26th annual Ohio conference cross-country race Saturday at Oberlin, giving him three in a row, while Oberlin is tipped to repeat as a team champ.

"Gabe" Paolozzi, a football, basketball and baseball letterman at Kenyon college, is the captain-elect of the 1941 Lords' grid team. The star halfback is from Ravenna.

L. C. Boles, who coached Wooster football for about a quarter-century before turning the job over to Johnny Swigart this fall, is on record with a statement that "golf is more difficult to teach than football." He's now coaching the Scot golf squad.

Coach T. C. (Tom) Vernia, whose Chillicothe Cavaliers lost eight of nine games this year for the worst season in his 11 years at the Ross county school, rates the play of Tommy Dearth, 119-pound junior guard, as the high spot of his drab campaign.

Lorain and Elyria high schools meet Saturday in one of Ohio's oldest scholastic football rivalries. It will be their 47th clash since 1894, and Lorain has won 28, lost 15 and tied three, all the deadlocks having been scoreless. After piling up 20 straight wins, Lorain has dropped its last three.

The Associated Press All-Ohio high school grid team is in the making, so if you have any nominations you'd better get 'em in, along with a pretty plausible explanation on the why and wherefore of your choice! There are 16,000 boys eligible for the first 11 births, so they have to be good to make it. Send your nominations right along to this column.

If the newly-scheduled game between Toledo Waite and Portsmouth, booked Monday night, Nov. 25, at Toledo, is as thrilling as the Buckeye Bowl game those teams staged last fall, you don't want to miss it.

* * *

In the 1939 clash Portsmouth led 7 to 6 with 20 seconds to go, but a Toledo kid who had never booted a field goal in his life kicked a 30-yard three-pointer in the rain to give Waite the win, 9 to 7.

500,000 Ohio Shooters Ready To Open Hunting Season Today

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Noon whistles today signaled the start of the 1940 hunting season in Ohio.

On the basis of a last-minute rush to obtain licenses, state conservation division officials estimated that 500,000 shooters were in the field to get first crack at rabbits, pheasants, grouse and Hungarian partridges.

An overnight snowfall covered the ground in some central Ohio sections and in the Cleveland area.

The conservation division planned a systematic check for violators of the hunting regulations, but was concerned chiefly with reducing casualties. Last year accidents killed four and wounded three on opening day.

In a bulletin on safety, the division advised hunters of three accepted ways to carry a gun—"over the shoulder with muzzle pointing upward, over the hollow of the arm pointing away from companions or dogs, or under the arm with the barrel pointing toward the ground."

Other cautions the division listed:

"Don't look down a gun barrel.

"Don't shoot across a public highway.

"Don't have a loaded gun in an automobile.

"Don't board a boat with a loaded gun.

"Don't drag gun over a fence muzzle foremost.

"Don't rest the muzzle on the ground.

"Don't load a gun in the house.

"Don't jump a ditch with a loaded gun.

"Don't shoot until you know what is within range; it may save a lifetime of regret, or at least the loss of a good dog or the farmer's pig.

"Don't put a wrong gauge shell into your gun.

"Don't threaten to shoot anyone, in fun or otherwise—this advice includes land owners."

* * *

The bag limit on rabbits is four a day or in possession, cock pheasants two a day or four in possession, partridges four a day or in possession and grouse two a day or in possession. Hen pheasants may not be taken.

ford, but not by much.

North Carolina-Duke: Injuries have played hob with Carolina. We'll take Duke.

Dartmouth-Cornell: Cornell gets this vote. Pitt-Nebraska: Nebraska. Notre Dame-Iowa: Notre Dame. Georgia Tech-Alabama: Tech's on the skids. Alabama.

Tennessee-Virginia: Tennessee easily. Southern Methodist-Arkansas: Pretty close. Southern Methodist. Baylor-Tulsa: This faint-hearted nod goes to Baylor.

Texas Christian-Texas: Texas. Washington-Southern California. Washington. California-Oregon. California. U. C. L. A.-Washington State: Washington State.

Oklahoma-Missouri: Out of the hat Missouri.

Princeton-Yale: Taking Princeton. Penn-Army: Taking Penn on the theory the Quakers may have learned something out of that 10-10 draw with Harvard.

Harvard-Brown: The coin says Harvard. Syracuse-Colgate. Syracuse. Columbia-Navy: In an absolute dither, Navy. West Virginia-Kentucky: Kentucky.

Penn State-New York university: Penn State. George Washington-Kansas: George Washington. Holy Cross-Temple. Temple. Manhattan-Villanova: Probably close. Villanova.

Illinois-Ohio State. No need to look past Ohio State. Wisconsin-Indiana: Indiana. Marquette-Michigan State. Michigan State.

Auburn-Louisiana State: Auburn. Tulane-Georgia: Fireworks can be expected. Tulane. Sewanee-Washington & Lee: W. & L. South Carolina-Furman. South Carolina.

Virginia Military-Maryland: V. M. I. Texas Tech-Wake Forest. Taking Tech solely because it will be playing at home.

North Carolina State-Citadel: State. Gonzaga-Detroit: Detroit.

Also: Colorado over Brigham Young. Denver over Utah State; Utah over Colorado State, Florida over Miami; Kansas State over Iowa State; Williams over Amherst; Catholic over Hardin-Simmons; Lafayette over Western Maryland; Santa Clara over St. Mary's.

Eugene Batson Elected 1941 Captain Of Madison Rams

EUGENE BATSON last night was elected to captain the 1941 edition of the Madison high school football team.

* * *

Young Batson, a junior, was elected by popular vote of his fellow teammates at the annual grid banquet given for the Rams by the Madison Boosters club in the school gymnasium and attended by 275 parents, friends and fellow students.

Voting on the captain was held during the dinner program, and announcement was made by Al Fendrick, school athletic director.

Paul Snyder, football coach at Mansfield Senior high school, was the principal speaker, and addressed the group on "football trends," in which he pointed out the benefits young men of today receive in the game of football.

Presentation of letters to the gridders was made by Coach Fendrick, who also introduced Walter Weimer and Robert Heichel, 1940 co-captains. Introduction of the reserves was made by Aaron Davis, jr.

Rev. Grover E. Swoyer, pastor of the First Lutheran church, served as toastmaster during the evening. Short talks were also given by Olan LaRue, superintendent of Madison schools, Wayne E. Miller, principal, Carl Phillipon, president of the Boosters club, and in charge of the banquet, and William Kopical, junior high supervisor.

As an added feature to the banquet, C. G. Heffner, teacher at the Terman school, showed colored motion pictures of the Madison-Bellville football contest.

Adario

THEATERS

From Best-Seller Novel

A group of eleven outstanding actors, headed by stars Norma Shearer and Robert Taylor, combines to bring to the screen one of the most thrilling best-sellers of the past year, Ethel Vance's "Escape." The picture opens Saturday at the Ohio. Miss Shearer is seen as Countess von Treck, who finds herself involved in the desperate attempt of an American artist, Mark Preysing to rescue his mother, ex-actress Emmy Ritter, from death in a concentration camp.

Seven New Songs.

Bing Crosby's new starring comedy, "Rhythm on the River," coming Saturday to the Madison, also stars Mary Martin, Broadway musical comedy star, Basil Rathbone, Lillian Cornell and Oscar Levant, expert of radio's "Information Please." Seven new songs are featured in this film. They are "Only Forever," "I Don't Want To Cry Anymore," "That's For Me," "What Would Shakespeare Have Said?" "Ain't It a Shame About Mame?" and "When the Moon Comes Over Madison Square." Co-feature is "I Want a Divorce" with Joan Blondell and Dick Powell.

Stage Show and Double Bill.

At the Park the stage vaudeville show continues with the four acts of comedy, music and dances. On the screen are "Who Is Guilty?" with Ben Lyon in the lead, and "Prairie Law" with George O'Brien. The latter concerns a daring scheme to seize control of an entire western community by a swindler. Newly elected sheriff of Prairie Rose, O'Brien sets out to recapture the county records. The governor of the state nullifies the dishonest election, and a blood-tingling battle between the ranchers and the nesters follows.

Herbert in Many Roles.

Offering Hugh Herbert a chance to romp through seven of the dizziest roles in comedy history, the gay musical farce, "La Conga Nights," is showing through Saturday at the Ritz. He portrays his eccentric mother, his four daffy sisters, his whimsical grandfather and himself. Constance Moore, starlet and singer, and Dennis O'Keefe share romantic honors in this musical film. Co-feature is "Devil's Saddle Legion."

Military Life.

Showing through Saturday at the Majestic are "Wagon Train," starring Tim Holt, with his wonder horse, Duke, and "The Fighting 69th," with an all-star cast of favorites. A candid picture of life in a military training camp is full of human interest situations and rousing excitement. Jeffrey Lynn plays the role of the war-time poet, Joyce Kilmer, and various other men of the famed New York regiment are portrayed by Alan Hale, Dick Foran, Tom Kennedy, Guinn Williams and many others.
